INSPECTING PUMPING OPERATION at Dobrey Slough Tuesday morning was State Rep. Horace Calvo (D-Granite City), who is seeking ways to aid slough residents whose homes are being damaged by the high water table. The tractor shown is powering a pump supplied by the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, but not until 2 a.m. Tuesday after the water crossed Angela Drive.

Quad-city projects get county priority

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
Seven major Quad-City area projects were among the 10 highest priority developments listed yesterday by the Madison County Board as it approved an "overall economic development program."

The program was prepared by an 11-member committee, chaired by Carl Mathias, service area manager for Illinois Power Co. The committee was appointed last month to work with the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission (SIMAPC) to prepare the study, necessary to qualify for federal grants on numerous public works projects.

Priorities for development in the first year of the program listed the Stephen Maers Industrial Park in Madison first, followed by Civic Memorial Airport near Bethalto, Fox Industrial Park in Madison, the Four Township Sewer Program, the Tri-City Regional Park, Illinois Power-Union Electric Industrial sites in the Quad-Cities near the port.

The North Port Industrial Park in Alton, rehabilitation of the Johns-Manville Plant in Madison, the Highland Industrial Park and the proposed Madison and Venice municipal incinerator.

County Board Chairman Norman Hagnauer complimented Mathias at the meeting for the "fine work" the committee has done in preparing the plan in a short period of time.

A $300-monthly salary increase for James Barton of Granite City, supervisor of assessments for the county, was approved on a 14-13 vote after lengthy discussion.

Hagnauer said an increase was promised Barton when he agreed to head both the assessment office and the office of maps and plats when they were consolidated March 1. The raise is retroactive to that date.

The raise brings his monthly salary to $18,500, which is more than any other appointed official and exceeds the salaries of three elected officials.

Mrs. Sibyl H. Bellis of East Alton, a board member, objected to the raise, saying she felt elected officials should be paid higher than appointed officials because of the costs incurred during campaigns for election.

Hagnauer defended the raise saying Barton has assumed extra duties and should be paid for them. "I think this increase is a fair one," he said.

In other business the board: Approved a redefinition of the boundaries of Nameoki Precinct 3.

Approved a lease agreement with the Illinois Terminal Railroad for use of a six-and-a-half mile abandoned right-of-way from Stallings School to Edwardsville for a bicycle nature trail. The lease is for $100 per mile each year.

Zoning recommendations concerning the boarding of horses in Glen Carbon were referred to the land use committee for study after objections were received from the village board.

Accepted a $2,450 bid from Rite Electric Co. to supply 13 heat detectors as a fire precaution for the Madison County Nursing Home. The Rite bid was the lowest of three received.

A plan to have the county issue tax free municipal bonds to build the proposed Oliver C. Anderson Hospital near Maryville was presented for board consideration.

Seek emergency status for Dobrey Slough drainage improvement

The Nameoki Town Board of Auditors voted Monday night to ask Gov. Daniel Walker to declare a state of emergency in the Dobrey Slough area because of flooding there.

The board also decided to ask the governor to urge immediate bidding for a Dobrey Slough interim drainage problem so that bids can be received and work started as soon as current labor strikes have been resolved.

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, representative of a group of citizens in the slough area who are supporting the interim drainage program, said a severe storm early this week raised the level of the slough to where it covered Angela Drive through Monday.

She said the East Side Levee and Sanitary District had not returned its large pump to the slough to help remove the water.

Eugene Gargac, chairman of the township's road and bridge committee, reported that the township street department had pumped water from the Ivy Lane area all Sunday night to avoid additional flooding in homes there during the storm.

Several residents of the area near the Route 203 improvement project asked if drainage on their streets could be improved by tapping drainage lines into the line being installed along the new roadway.

Albert Bell, highway commissioner, said the state's new line can be used for local drainage, but only for streets which are at a higher elevation than the new state line. He said most of the streets in the area are too low to utilize the line.

A letter was read from Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, indicating that an election is to be held for new State MRF officials and trustees, and informing township employees that nominations are being accepted for the election.

Norman Hessler, chairman of the finance and auditing committee, said his committee had reviewed all the township books from the 1972-73 fiscal year and found them to be in order.

Guidelines from the Illinois Bicentennial Commission were read which contained recommendations on how the township can help celebrate the nation's 200th birthday in 1976 with local festivities.

Bills paid included $3,361 from the town fund, $1,362 from general assistance, $359 from the road and bridge fund, $1,498 from revenue sharing for road and bridge purposes, $8,154 from the revenue sharing bridge account and $10,416 from the special hard road account.

The township auditors agreed to send bills for weed cutting to owners of property the township had to mow as a health hazard.

Gieson reminded all township residents that unmowed fields would increase the health hazard in the township as the fall season arrives and requested property owners to keep their lots free of tall weeds.

14th sewer break

The 14th major sewer break this year developed yesterday on 29th Street between Washington Avenue and Iowa Street.

Street Superintendent Lionel Portell said the break apparently involved three sections of pipe. Part of the street along the curbing caved in to expose the damage, Portell reported.

Repair work on the new break got under way today while workers also were completing repair work at the site of another break at Ames and Franklin avenues. Repair work is being done by the Fins Ernest, Inc. contracting firm of East St. Louis under a contract awarded by the City Council.

Portell said dewatering operations also were scheduled to begin today at a break in a sanitary sewer line on Franklin Avenue between Pontoon Road and Ames Avenue.

The new break followed heavy rains earlier in the week which contributed to the high water table that has plagued street department workers trying to repair broken sewer lines before the council decided to let the work under contract.

Without dewatering procedure, city workers were unable to reach most of the broken lines—all of them in the Nameoki area—because excavations filled with water as fast as they were dug.

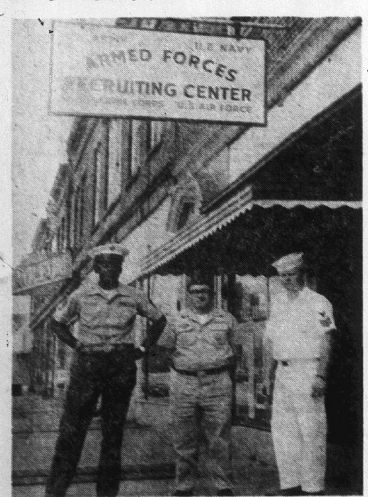

Portell said it will be possible to reach the new 29th Street break because that line is not as deeply set as most of the other breaks.

City officials have estimated a repair cost of $60,000 and have provided that amount in the new 1973-74 budget.

Carpenters settle, Teamsters strike

By KEN THOMPSON
Press-Record Staff Writer
A strike involving members of the Madison County Carpenters Council against the Southern Illinois Builders Association (SIBA) ended Tuesday when the two reached a tentative agreement in a dispute that halted $60 million in construction in Madison and three other counties.

Announcement of the pact between the council and the SIBA came after a 24-hour negotiating session with federal mediators in St. Louis.

Carpenters returned to their jobs yesterday morning except at those projects still being picketed by members of the Laborers' Council.

The majority of the laborers have settled their dispute with the SIBA and returned to work earlier this week, but another 500 members are still striking against major highway construction sites in a 12-county area of Southern Illinois, including this area.

Details of Tuesday's settlement were not disclosed until pending final ratification by the COMBINED OPERATIONS. Unified recruiting center for the four military services will formally open Monday at 1210 Niedringhaus Ave., the first combined facility of its type in the Quad-Cities. Standing beneath the newly erected sign are Staff Sergeant Willie E. Tatum, U. S. Marine Corps, Staff Sergeant Morris L. Cook, U. S. Army, and Petty Officer First Class Ray Deiters, U. S. Navy. An office to house the Air Force recruiter currently is being remodeled.

Armed Forces open recruiting center

Starting Monday, recruiting services for the four branches of the U. S. Armed Forces in the Quad-Cities will be centralized under one roof in a "ding" at 1210 Niedringhaus Ave.

Prospective candidates for duty with the U. S. Army, U. S. Marine Corps, U. S. Navy and U. S. Air Force may obtain appropriate information at the new Armed Forces Recruiting Center at the Niedringhaus address.

Separate offices will be maintained by the four military services, each with a senior veteran, non-commissioned officer in charge.

At the present time, the area reserved for an Air Force recruiter is being remodeled and refurbished, with the Air Force expected to take possession shortly.

The premises have been occupied by Army personnel for some time under the supervision of Staff Sergeant Morris Cook, a recruiting specialist, and Sergeant John Keene.

Their office is open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday Intensified effort for area Junior College is urged

"An intensified effort between now and August of 1974 is going to be necessary if a local junior college district is to become a reality," Leo Konzen, chairman of the junior college study committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the Tri-Cities, said today.

Konzen explained, "The efforts of many people and of legislators have been concentrated towards the creation of a new district, but we have to convince the state Junior College Board that such a district is a viable possibility and that the Quad-Cities could meet the economic responsibility of such a district."

He said, although local officials feel the local area can support its own district, efforts are continuing to have Collinsville or Edwardsville or both "join with us for a better, more fiscally sound district."

Monday was another payless payday for Chouteau Township highway department employees as the township's road and bridge fund again ran dry.

The township electors on June 19 voted to transfer $10,000 in excess general assistance funds into the road and bridge account to relieve a fund shortage.

James Estes, highway commissioner, reportedly added several young part-time workers to his staff at that time and paid them the same rate as his four full-time workers, $4 per hour.

St. Estes reportedly has trimmed the part-time workers and one full-time employee from the staff.

The department has no source of funds in sight until the first taxes arrive, which could be in September. He formerly requested a portion of the township's federal revenue sharing funds, but that request was denied by the auditors who have earmarked all revenue sharing for a new township building and garage.

The auditors Monday night, after refusing to pay road and bridge bills because of the depleted account, received a notice of intent to sell from Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burton, owners of land the township wants to purchase for the new building.

The township has agreed to buy the more than 10-acre parcel at $2,000 per acre if proper zoning is achieved. An on-site hearing has been scheduled by Madison County zoning officials for 10 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 29, on the zoning change.

The property is located northwest of the bend in Route 305 near Mitchell.

Burton, a commissioner of the Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice Drainage District, was reappointed by the auditors for a three-year term. His term was to have expired Sept. 1.

The board transferred $1,000 from the revenue sharing savings account to a levy account to pay per diem fees to the auditors for a special meeting they attended on the proposed building and to pay publishing costs related to the building.

The date of the next meeting of the board was changed from Monday, Aug. 27, to Friday, Aug. 31.

Road funds gone

Driver treated while trapped

A motorist who smashed into a pole on State Street at the 15th Street corner early today was given initial treatment at the scene by two nurses from St. Elizabeth Hospital while efforts were made to extricate him from the wrecked vehicle.

Samuel Brawley, 42, of 3326 Edison Ave., was traveling north on State Street at 4:05 a.m. today, when he apparently missed the curve at 15th and struck the utility company pole, police said.

Attempts to remove him from the auto lasted one hour. As an emergency measure, Granite City police officers transported two staff nurses from the local hospital to the accident scene to provide immediate aid to the seriously injured man.

Brawley was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital suffering a compound fracture to the right leg, multiple cuts to the face and forehead and extensive lacerations to the upper right thigh.

He was transferred at 5:45 a.m. to Pirmin Desloge Hospital in St. Louis.

GSI design approved for sales

W. Ashley Gray, Jr., chairman of the board of General Steel Industries, Inc., and John Hughes, president of Buckeye Steel Castings, a division of Buckeye International, Inc., announced yesterday a long-term agreement which will enable Buckeye to manufacture and sell GSI-designed rapid transit, commuter, and locomotive trucks in the United States and for export.

GSI, through its Engineering Division, has a world-wide reputation for leadership in the engineering and design of trucks for rail, transit, and commuter cars and locomotive applications.

GSI has licensing arrangements with producers in eight foreign countries — Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, England, Portugal, South Africa, and Spain. Buckeye Steel operates a large steel foundry at Columbus, Ohio, which supplies a wide range of castings to the railroads and industrial manufacturers.

The agreement between Buckeye and GSI will make available to the U.S. transportation industry GSI's original and innovative design of suspension systems with principle components produced by Buckeye, a long established railroad casting producer.

GSI Engineering is located in the St. Louis area and was formerly a part of GSI Castings Division in Granite City.

The licensing agreement covers engineering and design for Buckeye's production of trucks for mainline passenger cars as well as for rapid transit and commuter cars and locomotives.

New Law revises ban on burning

Gov. Dan Walker Tuesday announced his approval of a bill (HB 14) that will end an arbitrary ban on open burning but will permit the Pollution Control Board to regulate burning of vegetation when harmful to human, animal or plant life.

Gov. Walker vetoed a second bill (HB 43) on the same subject which would have precluded any state regulation of open burning.

The new open burning law sponsored by State Rep. Pete Pappas (R, Rock Island), takes effect Oct. 1.

"Open burning can cause health hazards in densely populated areas, particularly in combination with air that is already polluted. But a permanent statewide prohibition in a state as large and diverse as Illinois would be a mistake."

"The flat ban imposed under the previous administration was too broad. It applied to all communities over 2,500. Enforcing it provoked hostility which in turn provoked an arrogance on the part of the enforcers."

A ban on a leaf fire practically in the middle of nowhere made no sense.

"Arbitrary rules and arrogant enforcement have no place in state government."

"The bill I am signing will assure that open burning is forbidden only when it is going to cause health hazards or endanger the lives of people, animals or plants."

Gov. Walker cited three chief reasons for vetoing H.B. 43:

1. Open burning in areas of high population density can be injurious to health and this bill would prohibit the Pollution Control Board from imposing any regulation on such burning.
2. When an air pollution emergency occurs in areas of high population density, the board must have the power to restrict open burning controls to protect lives and health—as it has the ability to impose controls on industrial emissions in such emergencies.
3. The bill would make Illinois law inconsistent with the federal Clean Air Act of 1970 and the implementation plan which Illinois has filed with the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Rotarians told of club duties

The Rev. J. Louis Oetting, program chairman, introduced three members of the club who spoke on the theme "Understanding Rotary" at a meeting of the Granite City Rotary Club Tuesday at the YMCA.

Each of the three chairmen of standing service committees explained the function of his specific committee and outlined briefly plans for the year, July 1 through June 30, 1974.

Those taking part in the program were Dr. Jack Miller, vocational service; Robert Miller, international service; and Bill Terrell, community service.

Joe Hassler, president, conducted the business session and introduced guest Rotarians from Bushfield, Ill., Edwardsville, Highland and Bethalto, and a new member, Larry Hanold, manager of Credit Thrift Finance Co.

The resignation of Donald Lenz also was accepted as Lenz is moving to Lawrence, Kan., where he will be administrator of Lawrence Memorial Hospital.

Don Adams announced plans for a Carrot Auction to be sponsored jointly by the Rotary and Optimist Clubs on Oct. 20.

Walter Milton will be in charge of the program for next week's meeting and has arranged for Ed Edwards, a Rotary Club member and member of the Advisory Council of the School Board, to be the guest speaker.

County Health plan revived by board

Efforts to establish a Madison County Health Department were referred to committee after lengthy discussion on the floor of the Madison County Board meeting Wednesday morning in Edwardsville.

Opponents of the plan and its proposed $50,000 budget argued that the voters turned down a referendum for a health department more than 10 years ago and that the issue should be returned to the voters before such a department is established.

Supporters of the department urged that it be adopted to coordinate health efforts and to provide services not now offered by the county.

The 23-page proposal, presented by Robert L. Ford Jr., of River View, called for establishing an eight-member health board to oversee the operations of the department.

Two members would be physicians, one a dentist, one a member of the county board and four citizens.

The health board would be responsible for recommending the hiring of personnel and for meeting established criteria.

Federal and state grants would be sought to help fund the department's operations.

Among those who supported returning the question to the voters before establishing such a department was Carl Bushler, District 21 board member from Granite City.

Another objection was that the proposal was not taken through the board's committee on health institutions.

Ford said the plan was conceived by the Madison County Public Health Committee which was established in 1970 to study the health needs in the county and to organize a campaign to establish a health department.

The document Ford presented said the health department could be created by referendum if the voters would approve a levy of one-tenth of a cent per $100 assessed valuation, or could be established through a resolution of the County Board in which case it would be financed from the county's general fund.

Board member Wayne Bridgewater of Roxana said, "We don't have the general revenue for it. If those supporting it want to circulate petitions and get it on the ballot, they can do so."

Another member commented, "I don't think we need any more high paid paper pushers."

J. J. Gramlich of Highland added that the proposed department would duplicate the efforts of departments now in existence. He specifically cited the Madison County Mental Health (700) Board.

"We have a mental health board and I don't think it should interfere with..." He said 700 board members serve without pay and that members of the proposed board also should be willing to donate their time.

The Board voted to refer the issue to the legislative and health institutions committees for further study. Ford cast the only vote opposing the idea being routed to the committees.

Illinois Power Hospitality Day

Illinois Power Co. will host the Eighth Annual Hospitality Day for Home Economics Teachers and Consumer Education Instructors from Southern Illinois on Tuesday, Aug. 14, at the Wilson Park office, or by calling 877-5053.

Guests will include school administrators and home economists with the University of Illinois Extension. Granite City teachers from the high school and junior high schools will attend.

The meeting will be held at the Illinois Power Co. Office at 1050 West Boulevard, Belleville.

The program has been geared to help teachers incorporate the many aspects of consumer education into their curriculum.

Charles W. Wells, vice-president of Illinois Power Co., will speak on "Energy Supply."

Mrs. Jacqueline Anderson, assistant professor, Home Economics Department, University of Illinois, will present "A New Look at Cooking." She will demonstrate the new Westinghouse CT 2 Cool Heat Range.

Nancy Galer, home economist with Illinois Power Co., will discuss "What's New" in microwave ranges and portable electric appliances.

Classroom material, including information on energy conservation, will be distributed at the meeting.

20 tickets for Munry trip Tuesday

Twenty tickets remain for Tuesday's trip to the St. Louis Munry Opera for a performance of "Two Gentlemen of Verona." Harold Brown, Granite City Park District superintendent, said today.

Reservations cost $8.55 per person and include roundtrip fare by charter bus. Tickets are available at the Wilson Park office, or by calling 877-5053.

MANHOLE COVER OPENS

Mrs. Alpha Briggs, 2114 Cleveland Blvd., reported sustaining a back injury about 8 p.m. Tuesday when she stepped on a manhole cover at 22nd Street and Grand Avenue which collapsed, resulting in her leg entering the opening.

"DONKEY" MISSING

A black and white concrete donkey statue, measuring about 3 feet long and 3 feet high, was stolen from the yard of Wade Frazer, 3032 Sunbury Ave., the owner reported at 8:25 a.m. Wednesday. The "donkey" was valued at $25.

BURGLARIZE HOME

Entry was gained to the home of Mrs. Loretta Woodson, 91 Garesche Homes, Madison, after a panel next to an air conditioner was removed and a door was unlocked by reaching through the hole. It was reported at 5:50 p.m. Monday. A metal box in the bedroom was looted. It is unknown what was taken.

AUTO TIRES STOLEN

Craig Tarpoft, 1609 Clark Ave., reported at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday the theft of four tires and rims, valued at $140, from his 1971 auto which was parked at the rear of Tarpoft Packing Co., 1428 Edwardsville Road.

Colors can blend with wallpaper

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q I am wallpapering my dining room walls on the upper half with a flecked stripe that has a pale celery, gold and beige on pale cream background. I have a red and blue rug. What color should I paint the window frame, moldings and bottom half of the walls? I have the same red rug in the living room but the people who lived here before had dark gray drapes to go with it.

A. You have green and gold Mediterranean furniture. The drapes are in good condition. Do you have any suggestions for this room? — M.V.

Q I am interested in making some furniture. I have taken several furniture designing classes and am especially fond of the sparseness of design of the Shakers. Do you have any good books on Shaker furniture that might help me in designing some pieces for our own home? — E.T.W.

A. One of the most informative books I've run across on Shaker furniture is the "Illustrated Guide to Shaker Furniture" by Robert F.W. Meader. Meader, who is the director of Shaker Museum at Old Chatham, N.Y., illustrates his text liberally — 235 illustrations in the 146-page paperback published by Dover Publications, Inc., New York.

Q I am going to have two wing chairs upholstered. I am also planning on new wallpaper, drapes and painting the woodwork and doors. I have a beige rug, maple tables and a pumpkin-colored sofa that I have to work around. Could you give me some idea for colors on the chairs, wallpaper, drapes and doors? I am trying to avoid a beige color chair since this room is always very much lived in. I have thought of having one wall paneled. — W.S.

A. Why don't you put a busy print on the wing chairs? The print will add color and life to your room and at the same time be practical as far as hiding soil. Choose a print that you like that has some beige of your rug and pumpkin of your sofa in it. But don't limit only by those two colors. You might find a predominantly blue fabric with small amounts of pumpkin, beige and brown. Or perhaps a soft red, pumpkin, rust and beige. Look with this in mind. You could do draperies in a matching print fabric if you like. For wallpaper, why not use three walls of a plain textured fabric without any design or at the most a very subtle stripe of beige or beige and pale gold to carry out the pumpkin tone and wood panel the fourth wall? Paint the woodwork and doors the same color as the wallcovering or the predominant background of it.

No new negotiations have been scheduled between Local 1455 (St. Louis) of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Union Electric Co., after six hours of discussions Tuesday ended in an impasse.

Besides the contract talks with Local 1455, a company spokesman said that Union Electric also is negotiating with the Operating Engineers Union and members of three other Electrical Workers' locals. All contracts expired on June 30. More than 100 truck drivers of Teamster Local 610, St. Louis, walked out on strike late yesterday afternoon, after contract negotiations with Wholesale Grocery Distributors failed.

state aid figure for the 1973-74 school year which was released yesterday by the Office of Public Instruction (OSPI).

The new state aid total is $6,779,594, up $233,988 from the estimate of $6,455,606 issued by the district last week. The official total was released by Darrell Elliot, supervisor of finance and claims for OSPI, and showed that the 1973-74 total would be $7,509,445, minus an overpayment from last year of $113,151, for an adjusted total of $7,396,294.

The district received 13 state aid payments last year to assist them during a financial shortage, so it will receive only 11 monthly payments this fiscal year, rather than 12, one each month.

The district will receive $618,357 per month in state aid or a total for the 11 payments of $6,779,594.

The board and teachers agreed to establish a subcommittee to study the financial condition of the district. The subcommittee has been invited to meet with board members today to clarify questions concerning that status.

Junior College

likely to be expected to be a topic of discussion at tomorrow's meeting.

By Aug. 1, 1974, the State of Illinois requires all areas to be included in a Junior College District and to share in its financial cost by tax revenue. This means that the residents of the Quad-Cities will be paying taxes for a new taxing entity in addition to those they now carry.

The Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce, for the past 12 months, has been attempting to resolve this problem in order to keep the educational subjects, including the first two years of college baccalaureate subjects are readily accessible, and at the least possible cost to local taxpayers. This study has recently been joined by the voluntary group of business leaders who meet monthly under the sponsorship of the Granite City Rotary Club.

The Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce, for the past 12 months, has been attempting to resolve this problem in order to keep the educational subjects, including the first two years of college baccalaureate subjects are readily accessible, and at the least possible cost to local taxpayers. This study has recently been joined by the voluntary group of business leaders who meet monthly under the sponsorship of the Granite City Rotary Club.

The Study Groups have favored as a second alternative to Belleville Junior College whose 25-year history evidences a stable and fiscally sound institution. The distance to Belleville Junior College is approximately the same as the distance to the Godfrey Campus of Lewis & Clark Junior College.

The Quad-Cities at this time does not have the Belleville Junior College District, and therefore annexation is not possible unless Collinsville is first allowed to join the Belleville District, which would then give common boundary lines and permit the Quad-Cities to legally consider annexation to that Junior College.

The Study Group determined that Lewis & Clark Junior College is experiencing extremely heavy costs, perhaps partially due to the fact that they came into existence only a few years ago. The uncertainty of future operational cost factors of Lewis & Clark, its continued growth to the north of Godfrey and into Jersey County, its need to spend its finances to improve its Godfrey Campus, were all factors determined unfavorable by the Study Group to recommend Lewis & Clark Junior College as a second alternative.

An expressed willingness by Lewis & Clark to make adult educational courses, liberal arts as well as vocational courses, available in the Quad-Cities would weigh heavily upon the Study Group's future consideration as to which district this area should be annexed.

In July 1973, members of the Illinois Junior College Board staff suggested that if Collinsville, Edwardsville and the Quad-Cities could work together in creating a new district with facilities to be located on the Campus of SIU, Edwardsville and with vocational training within the communities themselves, then in the opinion of the staff, a good urban Junior College District could be created.

The communities of Collinsville and Edwardsville have not readily responded to this possibility and it appears that it may not come into reality.

The Illinois Junior College Board staff has stated that it will recommend against the petition to form a Junior College District comprised solely of the Quad-Cities, due to the low assessed valuation and the anticipated tax revenues required to maintain a Junior College.

The 1972 tax rate for Belleville Junior College was 20.9 cents as compared with 27.4 for Lewis & Clark. The approximate assessed valuation for Belleville Junior College is $600 million as compared to Lewis & Clark's $608 million.

The proposed tax rate for the local Junior College District would be 20 cents and assessed valuation of approximately $675 million.

The existing master plan for higher education in Illinois eventually requires the freshman and sophomore years of college to be provided through the Junior College districts and not through existing major universities, such as University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University.

It is, therefore, vital to the Quad Cities, in order to insure availability of college classes and adult vocational or occupational courses, that this area decide now the best Junior College district to meet those needs.

N.L. Industries strike mediation

Federal mediation into the strike of members of United Steelworkers of America Local 1558 against N. L. Industries (National Lead), 1611 16th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, are to resume at 10 a.m. tomorrow in St. Louis after a delay of one month.

The Steelworkers have been on strike since July 2 and representatives of the two sides have not met since July 12.

The strike does not affect the company's steel package division, 15th Avenue and State streets, where employees are represented by Steelworkers Local 1568.

The contract there expires Aug. 31 and negotiations are underway. Two meetings were held this week and additional sessions are scheduled Saturday and on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday next week.

Oily flood plagues merchants

By KEN THOMPSON
Press-Record Staff Writer

Damages to downtown property caused by oil that was carried by water into the sewer system and then flooded into the streets during a 2.5-inch rain early this week is considered by Mayor Paul Schuler as "an act of God."

But downtown merchants who were affected by the flood, disagree with the mayor and blame the city for not providing a better stormwater sewer system in the downtown area.

They met Tuesday to discuss the possibility of legal action against the city and the owners of property from which the oil is believed to have penetrated the drainage system.

Robert Jackson, superintendent of the city's sewage treatment plant, said his department traced the source of the oil to underground storage tanks located on property owned by Camino Industrial Center and the Nesco Steel Barrel Co. plant.

Dale Stogsdill, general manager of the Gateway Distribution Center, Inc., a tenant on the Camino property, said he is not sure the oil came from the one tank on the property.

Stogsdill said that two other tanks in the area are on the property of the NESCO plant. William Massie, plant manager at NESCO, said the oil seepage did not come from his plant because there is only one tank located on the property and it contains No. 2 grade oil, whereas the oil involved is of a No. 6 grade.

Rudy Novick, manager of Stefanie's Ladies Apparel, said, "I arrived to see a sorry sight. Fronts of the buildings looked as if they actually had been tarred."

His store, along with others in the area, was extensively damaged by the flood and Novick said that no compensation could be expected from insurance companies because claims would be classified as flood damage, when "the actual damage was caused by the oil itself."

Novick expressed the feelings of other merchants who had learned that the city's appropriation of $175,000 in revenue sharing funds to improve the city's storm sewer system do not include the downtown area.

He said, "Unfortunately, I have a feeling that downtown Granite City has rarely been included. It's ironic that we have lived with a condition here that has needed alleviation, even in the seven years and before, that I've been here."

"It's said in a way," he added, "There is a certain amount of revenue that the city does gain from the businesses here, but if conditions are such that people won't come downtown to shop, it's going to cause a decrease in business and in turn a decrease in revenue, which will place the city in a worse condition than they may already be in."

R.F. Wade gets sales post

Richard F. Wade, 2906 Yale Ave., has been appointed sales manager in Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Granite City office at 3703 N. Main St. The appointment was announced by District Sales Manager E. Ray Grisham, C.L.U.

Wade joined Metropolitan Life as a sales representative in the Granite City office in January, 1973.

A native of Granite City, Wade received his education at Granite City High School and Eastern Illinois University. He served in the U.S. Air Force and is a member of Masonic Lodge 855, the Elks, and the Kiwanis Club.

Wade is married to the former Miss Nancy Fleishman of Granite City.

DRIVER DAMAGES LAWN

The driver of a white and green auto reportedly "dug up turf," damaging the lawn, when he drove through the front yard at the home of Marion Meyer, 2904 St. Clair Ave., the householder told police at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

1970 AUTO STOLEN

Marcel Patton, 2421 E. 25th St., reported his dark green 1970 Buick Wildcat was stolen from Washington Avenue and August Street at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

will place the city in a worse condition than they may already be in."

Mayor Schuler said that the city did not include the downtown area in its sewer improvement plans because, although the drainage system there might not be perfect, several retailers have told him that this is the first time in many, many years, that they've ever had water in their stores.

Mrs. Marilyn Lunsford, owner of Marilyn's House of Fashion, said that she had just cleaned up her store due to flooding caused by heavy rains a week before.

"Mrs. Lunsford said that, including John Marco, acting director of the Illinois EPA, visited the site and the MAL landfill operation Monday."

State Rep. Horace Calvo (D-Granite City) described the landfill operation as "one of the best we have in the state," according to Hartbarger.

The new site also will provide ample space for dumping for approximately 16 1/2 years, with 200 acres being used for landfill operations and the other 50 acres for the recycling plant. The plant will be 100 feet by 300

Recycling plant planned at MAL

A $250,000 recycling plant is to be built on a 250-acre site on Chouteau Island, across old U.S. 66 from the present MAL landfill, it was announced this week by Kenneth Hartbarger, president of MAL Corp.

The project is being undertaken as a joint venture between MAL and the Alton Box Board Co.

The site has been approved by Madison County and by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. Officials of both the county and state EPA,

Madison ok's zoning cost

The Madison City Council Tuesday night approved a resolution to share the expense of a contract with Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission (SIMAPC), which will conduct a land use survey of the city as background information for a subsequent housing code and zoning ordinance at a cost of $8,000, with the city of Madison to pay $4,000 of that amount.

Building Inspector John Dutko, after reporting to the council that several buildings located throughout the city are in need of repairs or beyond repair, received approval to have those buildings found to be beyond repair legally condemned.

"The majority of the damage occurred because the street department did not block off the streets soon enough to keep out traffic."

"Cars driving through the area caused waves which forced the oil and water into the insides of our shops."

Stogsdill said his company will cooperate fully with the city to make sure a leak cannot develop. The tank was drained and in the process of being filled with sand yesterday morning.

Mayor Schuler said that if owners of the other two tanks won't take measures to prevent a recurrence, the city would contact the Environmental Protection Agency to initiate some kind of legal action.

Although the plight of the downtown area will not be eased, Schuler said that the storm sewer drainage project in other areas will begin some time in the middle of September.

The mayor said the projects are being delayed while the city is in the process of screening applicants for the position of City Engineer. When one is hired an engineering department will be established.

Meanwhile, cleanup operations still are underway at many businesses as employees mop and scrub to rid the walls and doors of the black, slippery substance.

Walker ok's death benefit

Gov. Dan Walker Wednesday announced his approval of House Bill 774, which adds the designation "volunteer firemen" to those now covered by the state's $10,000 death payment to families of policemen and firefighters killed in the line of duty.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. William F. Mahar (R., Hanover), takes effect Oct. 1. Gov. Walker said: "Firemen are firemen, whether they are full-time employees or contribute their services. All firefighters are helping protect the lives of their fellow citizens. "I am pleased that the bill I have signed will provide families of volunteer firemen the same state-paid death benefit as other firemen."

Warrior-Steeler football teams muster forces for 73-74 season

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

It's almost that time of year when high school locker rooms spring to life with the thunder of size 11 boots and the dormant ulcers of prep grid coaches start stirring.

The football season is just around the corner with practice sessions getting under way Monday for varsity and junior varsity players at both Granite City High schools.

For the first time in its prestigious 32-year gridiron history, Granite City will field two varsity squads—the Warriors (South) and the Stealers—the latter team representing the new Granite City High School-North.

Wayne Williams is starting his fifth season as head football coach at Granite City High School-South.

Across town, Tom Wyrostek, former defensive coach for Warrior teams, will initiate his first season as head coach, directing the GCHS-N Stealers.

Wyrostek said football equipment will be issued at 7 p.m. today and at 10 a.m. Friday to prospective players on the Steeler squads at Grigsby Junior High School. Practice for all Steeler hopefuls begins at 9 a.m. Monday at Grigsby JHS.

At Granite High School-South, football equipment will be distributed Friday at Memorial Gymnasium.

Varsity players (junior and seniors) can check out equipment from 9 a.m. until noon tomorrow, with sophomores reporting from 1 to 4 p.m. Varsity and sophomore teams will start their first official practices at 8 a.m. Monday, with prospective freshman football players asked to report at the GCHS-S gym at 10 a.m. Monday.

The Warrior gridgers will face their first 1973-74 season opponent—River View Gardens, Mo.—in a home game at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 15.

The new Steeler squad will make its debut also in a home contest at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept.

14, against Jacksonville, Ill. Both contests will be played at the Granite City High School stadium.

This fall about 555 high schools belonging to the Illinois High School Association will participate in football. All are permitted to begin official practices Monday, however, several schools, such as those locally, will issue equipment and have arranged for players to take their required physical examinations at an earlier date.

Under the rules of the state high school association, schools may not organize or practice teams before the second Monday preceding Labor Day.

Also in accordance with IHSAA regulations, prep players must have engaged in a minimum of 90 minutes of actual field practice on each of 14 days preceding the first interschool game or scrimmage and no school may play its opening game earlier than Friday, Sept. 7 this year.

Local coaches pointed out these rules are adopted by members of the association for the protection of the players and to promote equality in competition among the schools.

Monday, also is the beginning date for practice in fall baseball, cross country, golf and soccer.

In these sports, however, there is no required amount of practice before the first interschool contest may be conducted. Schools may hold their first matches in the four sports as early as the fifth school day after the opening of the fall term.

Approximately 400 IHSAA member schools will participate in cross country this fall, while nearly 70 will engage in soccer competition.

An orientation program for prospective soccer players at Granite City High School-North was conducted by Head Coach Bob Kehoe yesterday at Maryville Grade School.

Tennis tourney opens Friday

The MacClair Tennis Association of Madison and St. Clair Counties will hold a regional championship tournament Friday through Saturday in Edwardsville. Ron Patterson of Granite City will be the director of the tournament which will start at 9 a.m. each day.

Eight participants will play in each age group bracket for the boys and for the girls.

In the 18 year old girls category, four youngsters from Granite City have qualified to make up half of the field of contestants for that category. They are Carol Makarowicz, Pat Dochwat, Sandy Yeben and Robin Deterding.

Other Granite City youths participating in the tournament are Mike Papes in the 14-year-old boys' bracket and Jim Ettimoff in the 18-year-old boys' bracket.

Schedule of play on Friday will be 12 and 14-year-old boys and girls singles matches beginning at 9 a.m. and doubles matches at noon. 16-year-old boys and girls singles matches beginning at 11 a.m. and doubles matches at noon.

Saturday will see 18-year-old boys and girls singles matches beginning at 9 a.m. and doubles matches at noon.

A concluding action on Sunday will have all semi-final and final match play beginning at 9 a.m.

Lee wins second track event

Defending track champion, Robert E. Lee, Fort Worth, Texas, in a late season comeback attempt, captured his second consecutive feature event in the AHA sanctioned short track motorcycle racing program Tuesday night at Tri-City Speedway.

Cardinal shortstop Mike Tyson during the St. Louis-Atlanta Braves game, when the youngster served as honorary bat boy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rongey, 2704 State St.

That maneuver by Aldana resulted in an injury to Lee's left leg and considerable damage to his cycle.

Lee then was declared the winner after a penalty was imposed on Aldana, moving him to second position.

The Texas rider is still far from the point lead even though he won two other events that evening, the second heat and second semi-feature event.

Other event winners were: 3rd heat: Rick Morris, St. Louis; 4th heat: Pat McCaul, San Jose, Calif.; 5th heat: Charles Chapple, Flint, Mich.; Trophy Dash: Al Steele, Alton; Charles Seale, Lantana, Florida who captured the third semi-feature event after posting fast time of the evening, 15.64 seconds around the quarter-mile dirt oval.

Motorcycle racing will resume again next Tuesday evening at Tri-City Speedway as time trials begin at 7 p.m. and the first event scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

GC Legion team in first loss

At Springfield Tuesday night, the Granite City American Legion Post 118 baseball team was handed its first loss of the double-elimination Legion tournament, being edged out by Pekin 3-2.

Granite City had six hits and one error and Pekin had five hits and one error.

Pitcher Jim Carroll was given the loss. In the third inning Carroll relieved starter John Stanton, who was making his first appearance on the mound since he hurt his throwing arm in a July 18 game.

Granite City scored one run in the third inning when Jack Scarborough walked and Tim Klobnak doubled to score Scarborough, and one run in the fourth inning when Mike Martinez reached second base on an error and Steve Ashby singled to score Martinez.

Post 118's next game in the tournament will be Friday night at 7:30 at the Lamphier High School diamond in Springfield.

Entries accepted for Labor Day slow pitch tournament

Entries are now being accepted for the Granite City Park District Labor Day weekend men's and women's slow pitch softball tournaments.

The double-elimination men's tournament will be limited to 24 teams, with all games to be played at Worthen Park.

Entries for the women's tournament will be limited to 12 teams. All games of the double-elimination tournament will be played at Wilson Park.

A $25 entry fee is required in both tournaments, which are open only to GC Park District teams. Registrations are on a first-come-first-serve basis at the Park District office.

Exact time and playing dates will be announced at a later date.

Tennis tourney at Park, GCHS

The Granite City Park District will hold an invitational tennis tournament this weekend, Aug. 17-19, at the park and Granite City High School tennis courts.

Players are limited to three events in the tournament. Tennis balls will be furnished and trophies will be presented to the champions in each category.

The following events will be included:

- Boys and girls, 14 and under, singles and doubles matches;
- Boys and girls, 16 and under, singles and doubles matches;
- Boys and girls, 18 and under, singles and doubles matches;
- Senior men's, singles matches.

SIUE training site for Olympic soccer players

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, home of the defending national NCAA college soccer division champions, will be the site of one of three developmental camps to train American players for the 1984 Olympic Games.

Gene Edwards of Milwaukee, first vice-president of the United States Soccer Football Association, announced the sites.

The two other schools are San Jose State of California and East Stroudsburg State of Pennsylvania.

Bob Guelker, coach of the 1972 U.S. Olympic team, the SIUE soccer team, will serve as coordinator of the camp to be held at the Cougars' field Aug.

27-31. Bob Kehoe, newly named soccer coach at Granite City High School-South, and Bill Killen, coach of the University of Akron team, will serve as assistant coaches with Guelker.

The eastern camp at East Stroudsburg, which started Monday is directed by John McKeon, coach of the nationally-ranked East Stroudsburg State Warriors.

The far west camp, under the direction of San Jose State College coach Julie Menendez, will run Tuesday through Saturday.

There will be two age groups in each of the three camps, 13 players in the 16-18 age group and 13 in the 19-through-23 range.

GCHS-N football games scheduled

Coach Tom Wyrostek, Granite City High School-North, has announced three dates in September that will kick-off his varsity, sophomore and freshman teams 1973 football campaign.

The varsity team is to meet Jacksonville, Friday, Sept. 14, and the sophomores will play Jacksonville, Saturday, Sept. 15, in home games.

North's freshman team is scheduled to play at Assumption on Thursday, Sept. 20, at 8 p.m.

The other two games are scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. in the afternoon.

Invitational baseball park meet Aug. 19-20

The 10th annual invitational baseball tournament will be held by the Granite City Park District Aug. 19-20 at the Worthen Park baseball diamonds.

The tournament will include the award of atom, bantam, midweight and juvenile division championship titles.

Teams from as far away as Centralia and Mascoutah are entered in the competition.

Local teams participating in the tournament include St. Margaret, Mary, Kiwanis Redlegs and Granite Sheet Metal in the midweight division and First National Bank and Mercer Mortuary in the bantam division.

Trophies will be awarded the winning team in each division.

Leo Wolf team ends season

The Leo Wolf Construction baseball team of Granite City concluded its season Friday night by defeating the Carlinville Lions 13-4 to win the Central Illinois Sports League playoff championship.

Leo Wolf earlier had captured the league championship by posting a 13-1 win-loss record.

In the Carlinville game, Nick Dochwat led the team in hitting by rapping out four singles, and Keith Moran had two singles and a triple. The winning pitcher was Randy Lyerla, who gave up six hits while walking none to conclude his season with a 14-0 record.

Leo Wolf earlier eliminated Bend in a semi-final game 8-4.

Jeff Scarborough had a home run and a triple, and Moran had two singles and a double in that contest. Lyerla was the winning pitcher, allowing eight hits while striking out seven.

After the Carlinville game, Don Cooper, president of the Central Illinois Sports League, presented individual league and championship trophies to members of the team.

Team members are Keith Moran, Randy Lyerla, Jeff Scarborough, Richard Schmidt, Tom Manogian, Nick Nick Dochwat, Mike Davis, Alan Benke, Jim Louis, Bryan Bunjan and John Burdge.

Track stars to enroll at SIUE

Two standout area high school track stars have signed letters of intent to enroll at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Jack Whitted, SIUE track coach, has announced.

They are Dave Macios of Granite City and Michael Thomas of East St. Louis. Macios is a pole vaulter and Thomas is a discus and javelin thrower. Macios has jumped 14 feet in the pole vault event.

Registration set in ladies' tourney

Registration is now open for the ladies' slow pitch softball tournament to be held in Dupo Aug. 31 through Sept. 3 at Bryants Field.

Entry fee for the Amateur Softball Association sanctioned tournament is $20.

For more information or to register, players may contact Robert Mason Sr., 200 South Main, Dupo, phone 286-3238.

South soccer meeting

Prospective soccer players for Granite City High School-South are requested to meet at 11 a.m. Monday in front of the school gymnasium for a short meeting with the new coach, Gene Baker, school officials announced today. Every effort should be made to bring completed physical examination forms to the meeting they attended. Blank forms are available at the school board office, 20th and Adams streets.

2 in football drills

Two Quad-City football players were among 80 candidates who participated in pre-season drills at Northeast Missouri State University this week.

Harold James, Madison, who was a member of the 1972 second all-MIAA team, and Willie Benson, Venice, who gained 147 yards on 27 carries and snagged six passes on 40 attempts in a reserve role last fall, will vie for starting berths. James as a junior linebacker and Ackers as a junior wingback, in NMSU's 1973 lineup.

NMSU, who finished fourth in the 1972 MIAA standings, will kick-off the season with a Sept. 4 game against Central Methodist.

Computer revision cuts cost

A massive program to save Illinois taxpayers millions of dollars in public aid costs through better use of computers, coordinated by the departments of Public Aid and Finance, will be completed Friday.

The project, converting 300 public aid computer programs for use on the state's advanced computers, has been performed by 120 university graduates over the past ten weeks.

Officials from IBM said this is the first time to their knowledge such a cooperative state-university project has been successfully undertaken.

In the past, the Management Information Division of the Department of Finance, which operates the state's computers, was forced to slow its computers to a crawl in order to handle the old public aid programs.

The public aid programs, designed for antiquated first generation computers, were converted for use on the state's new third generation IBM 370-165 machines.

Program conversion costs obtained earlier through public bidding by computer firms ran in excess of $1.8 million. The bids were rejected. The cost of the conversion at the U. of I. is $265,000, a savings of $1.5 million.

Computer time previously occupied by the public aid programs was computed at $26,000 per month. The converted programs cut computer time cost to $40,000, for a monthly savings of $26,000 in time which can be used for other state programs being run on commercial computers at a comparable expense.

The 100 undergraduate and 20 graduate students were selected from among 700 applicants with backgrounds in computer science. Those selected had an average of 30 hours of computer program-

Tuberculosis 'awareness' clinic at hospital here

The Illinois Department of Public Health and the Madison County Tuberculosis Clinic are conducting a tuberculosis awareness and prevention program this week at St. Elizabeth Hospital for all hospital employees.

At Grant, Public Health Department advisor, and Dr. Louis Ventura, director of the Tuberculosis Clinic, are supervising the program. Assisting them is Betty Watson RN, Kathleen Boyd LPN and clerical personnel from the nursing services at the hospital. The program, designed to teach all of the employees about TB prevention and curing techniques, is in preparation to start admittance of TB patients at hospitals because of the closing of all sanatoriums.

All hospital employees, approximately 800, were required to attend the teaching program and also are required to take a TB skin test this week.

The TB skin tests, which require 48 hours before the test can be read, started Monday and will run through Friday. The skin test will be given yearly to all St. Elizabeth Hospital employees and all newly hired personnel also will be required to take the test.

Mother of GC man dies

Mrs. Cora F. Berry, 88, of 105 South Stanton St., Lebanon, mother of James H. Berry, died at 7:35 a.m. Wednesday in the Lebanon Nursing Home, Lebanon.

She had been a resident of the nursing home 15 months. Mrs. Berry was a lifelong resident of Lebanon.

She was a member of the First United Methodist Church in Lebanon and belonged to the History Club of the church.

Other survivors include her husband, Dr. Roy C. Berry, one grandchild, Mrs. Gilbert Hollinger and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the First United Methodist Church, Lebanon. Burial will be in College Hills Cemetery, Lebanon.

mining courses and most had actual programming experience.

The summer operations were supervised by personnel from Finance and Public Aid. In preparation for the program, the students underwent an intensive two-week training course, taught by IBM instructors.

The undergraduate students were paid $3 per hour, while the graduates were paid $5 for a 40-hour a week schedule worked out at the students' convenience.

Students were given free dormitory rental at state expense for the summer.

10 divorces, one annulment granted

Ten area couples have been granted divorces in Madison County Circuit Court. Divorced were:

Wanda Debow Mefford (Kline) from Harold Philb Madison, both of Granite City. They were married May 30, 1972, at Collinsville and separated in July 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Her former name was restored.

Marilyn Ruth Thrasher from Hershel W. Thrasher, both of Granite City. They were married Feb. 9, 1964, in St. Clair County and separated May 30, 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of one child was granted to the mother and the father was ordered to pay $15 per week child support.

Margaret Ann Podraza (Gajewski) from Paul Stanley Podraza, both of Granite City. They were married in May of 1970 in Granite City and separated in June of 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of two children was granted to the mother and the father was ordered to pay $100 per month child support.

Sharon S. Gusewelle (Cox) from Kenneth E. Gusewelle, both of Granite City. They were married Oct. 21, 1968, in Granite City and separated in March of 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of two children was granted to the mother and the father was ordered to pay $25 per week child support.

Brenda Walker from Harold Laverne Walker, both of Madison. They were married Jan. 21, 1967, in Madison County and separated Jan. 29, 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of two children was granted to the mother. The father was ordered to pay $30 per week child support.

Arnela Terrell from William Terrell, both of Madison. They were married Dec. 12, 1967, and separated in 1967. Desertion was charged. Custody of four children was granted to the mother. The father was ordered to pay $40 per week child support.

Constance Davis (Bosworth) from Steven Davis, both of Venice. They were married July 8, 1970, in St. Louis and separated in June of 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of one child was granted to the mother and the father was ordered to pay $10 per week child support.

Jon Larry Garner from Carla Jean Garner, both of Granite City. They were married Dec. 30, 1968, in Alton and separated in June of 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of two children was granted to the mother and the father was ordered to pay 10 per cent of his income for child support.

The court also annulled the marriage of Betty Lou Stufbleben (Dyer) and Harold Donald Stufbleben Jr., both of Glen Carbon. They were married May 4, 1973, in Madison County and separated the same month. Her former name of Betty Lou Short was restored.

Wilson's topic, "Rationale for Using the Newspaper in the Classroom," discussed with administrators some advantages of using the newspaper in their schools.

MISS KAREN A. KIBORT, who will become the bride of David Keith Chapman of Ottawa, Ill., on Dec. 29. Their engagement is being announced by the bride-to-be's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kibort, 3341 Colgate Place, (Gravemann Photography).

Chapman-Kibort betrothal

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kibort, 3341 Colgate Place, are announcing the engagement and forthcoming wedding of their daughter, Miss Karen Ayece Kibort, and David Keith Chapman, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Chapman, 433 Congress, Ottawa, Ill.

Plans are being completed by the engaged couple for a wedding on Dec. 29.

Miss Kibort was graduated from Granite City High School and is majoring in accounting at Illinois State University at Normal.

Her fiancé was graduated in 1970 from Ottawa High School. He also is attending Illinois State University where he is studying pre-law. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

Addresses school officials

Alfred J. Wilson, principal of Emerson School, spoke at a meeting of 200 school board members, superintendents and principals at the University of Texas-Arlington.

Wilson's topic, "Rationale for Using the Newspaper in the Classroom," discussed with administrators some advantages of using the newspaper in their schools.

The meeting was followed with a slide presentation of students' work with the newspaper taken at Emerson School.

This was the second workshop sponsored by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that Wilson had addressed earlier this summer at UT-A.

He has also been a guest lecturer at the University of Mississippi, University of Nebraska-Omaha, Bradley University, and SIUC. In October, Wilson will speak in Baltimore, Md., for Maryland, Delaware-D.C. Press Association.

Rites in Phoenix for Jack Lutzker

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. today in Phoenix, Ariz. for Jack Lutzker, 73, of Phoenix, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Herman (Blanche) Steinberg, 2229 Lynch Ave.

Mr. Lutzker died Tuesday afternoon in a Phoenix hospital where he had been a patient six weeks.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rose (Sanders) Lutzker, formerly of Granite City and a sister of Mrs. Steinberg, one son, Darrell Lutzker and three grandchildren.

The Lutzker's visited here in June when they attended the 50th wedding anniversary of the Steinbergs.

*$750,000 suit

William E. Carroll has filed suit against Union Electric Co. and the Canal Motel in Mitchell for injuries he suffered May 23 when struck by an electrical line while he was working on a sign at the motel.

Another worker with him was killed in the incident. Carroll is seeking $750,000 from each company for alleged injuries to his head, face and body.

Gospel music at Emmanuel Baptist

The Nickel Family Singers of Springfield, Mo., will present a special Gospel music program at 7:30 p.m. today at the Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1800 Pontoon road.

A wide variety of musical arrangements and selections, including several original compositions, will be included in the program.

The group has presented concerts in 40 states and five Canadian provinces during the past 15 years, with approximately 200 services presented annually.

The Rev. Arthur Short, pastor, announced that the Billy Graham film, "The Revolution One" will be shown at the church at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 28.

Colleen Jeffries is engaged

Mr. and Mrs. James Jeffries, 2677 Center St., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Colleen Jeffries, to Gerardo Pagnani.

Miss Jeffries, a 1971 graduate of Granite City High School, presently is a junior year student at Eastern Illinois University at Charleston.

Her fiancé, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michele Pagnani of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, is enrolled in the graduate program of physical education at EIU.

Wedding plans are indefinite at the present time.

Feliciano, Copland and Miller in MRF spotlight

Jose Feliciano, Aaron Copland and Mitch Miller will entertain audiences at the Mississippi River Festival Friday, Saturday and Sunday on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Feliciano will appear at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow. Copland will direct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at 8:30 p.m. Saturday and Miller will lead the orchestra and audience in a "sing-along" starting at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Feliciano has achieved in a few years the kind of international prominence few people have attained in an entire lifetime. Around the world, his name is associated with guitar artistry that's part Spanish and part jazz, part rock and part soul. As a singer and entertainer, he has captured North and South America, Europe and the Far East. His RCA releases, which include 29 gold records, sell into the millions, world-wide every year.

He became nationally prominent with his chart-busting "Light My Fire" and went on to be named the Best New Artist and Best Male Vocalist of 1965 by the N.A.R.A.S. at the Grammy Awards. He has successfully toured Central and South America, Europe, Japan, Australia, and Canada and plans a trip to the Soviet Union this fall.

Appearing with Copland will be the Orchestra's principal clarinetist George Siffes in a performance of Copland's Clarinet Concerto. Young American violinist Mark Kaplan, a finalist in this year's prestigious Leventritt Competition, will perform Vieuxtemps' Violin Concerto No. 4 on Sunday evening.

Considered "the Dean of American Composers," Copland will conduct his own Four Dance Episodes from "Rodeo" in addition to his concerto. The program will also include Rouse's Suite in F, Berlioz' Royal Hunt and Storm from "The Trojans" and Faure's Suite from "Pelléas and Mélisande."

Miller, known nationwide for his famous "Sing Along With Mitch" albums and long-running television show, will lead one of his famous "Sing-Along" including such favorites as "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover," "Shine on Harvest Moon" and "Goodnight, Sweetheart." Other light works on his program will be Rodgers' Music from "South Pacific" and von Suppe's Overture to "Pique Dame." Rossini's Overture to "Semiramide" will open the concert followed by Gounod's Ballet Music from "Faust."

Concertgoers are reminded that the 1973 Mississippi River Festival season will involve an extensive effort on the part of the university and festival employees to strictly enforce existing state and university policies which prohibit the sale, possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Tickets for the Mississippi River Festival concerts range from $2.50 to $5.50 for reserved seating, under the tent and lawn seating is $2. Ticket information is available at Powell Symphony Hall at 314-533-3500 or the SIUE ticket office at 682-2320.

AARON COPLAND, acclaimed as America's foremost living composer, who will conduct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at Saturday's Mississippi River Festival. Sunday's concert will feature a sing-along with Mitch Miller.

Eugene Goldsmith cited for service

Technical Sergeant Eugene Goldsmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Goldsmith, 7545 Woolston Ave., Philadelphia, has received the U. S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Kelly AFB, Texas.

Sergeant Goldsmith, an information technician, was cited for meritorious service at Misawa AB, Japan. He now serves at Kelly with Headquarters, U. S. Air Force Security Service. The sergeant has completed a tour of duty in Vietnam.

The sergeant's wife, Ruth, is the daughter of Mrs. Arletha Lomax, 1225 Douglas St., Venice.

MOTORIST CHARGED

Dwight Leman Williams, 22, of St. Louis, was charged with criminal trespass or damage to property in a complaint signed by former Mayor Donald Partney at 5:30 p.m. Monday after Williams' auto allegedly caused ruts in the front yard of the Partney property at 2500 Missouri Ave. He was released on notice to appear at 10 a.m. Monday.

Earns GM scholarship

Kenneth M. Filcoff, a June graduate of Granite City Senior High School, has been awarded a four-year General Motors scholarship by Washington University at St. Louis.

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boris Filcoff, 1304 Iowa St., Madison, plans to major in electrical engineering with a doctorate as his eventual goal. His demonstrated leadership qualities and scholastic achievement in high school were instrumental in his selection by Washington University for the coveted GM award.

The scholarship is one of 136 to be awarded this year by over 124 colleges and universities throughout the country as part of GM's overall program of support for higher education. In all, over 700 students are attending colleges with GM assistance. Each scholarship is valued at from $200 to $2,000 a year, depending on the need of the student. All private colleges participating in the program also receive annual grants-in-aid from GM of $500 to $800 per scholarship, based on tuition costs.

While at Granite City High, Kenneth received the National Educational Development Test Achievement Award; was active in the Order of the Arrow, the Chess and German Clubs and served as treasurer of his Boy Scout Explorer's Club.

Heavy rain leaves unsafe play areas

Youngsters swimming in a flooded drainage ditch adjacent to Terminal Avenue, about 6:30 p.m. Monday, were rebuked by police officers and sent home.

Officers also reprimanded a group of children playing in a flooded area on Nameoki Drive at 2:15 p.m. Monday, after motorists reported their vehicles stalled in the water when forced to halt for the youngsters.

Drum expert conduct clinic

A youthful drum artist whose technique is a "credit to the percussion professions, respected by pros and students alike," according to experts in the field, will conduct a free clinic at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Fellowship Hall at St. John United Church of Christ, 2801 Nameoki Road.

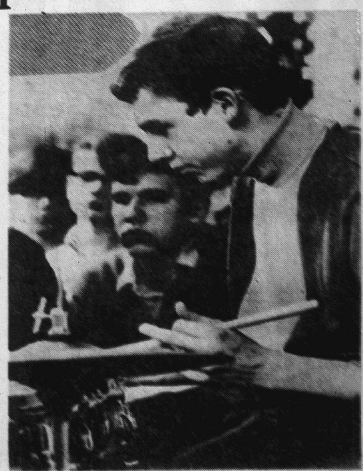

Don Osborne Jr. of Chicago is a protégé of master percussionist Buddy Rich. He is conducting clinics during the summer months in various cities across the United States between special appearances with the Buddy Rich Orchestra.

The clinic is being sponsored here by John Fornasewski Drum Studio and Music Store, 2808 Nameoki Road. Additional information may be obtained by calling Fornasewski at 877-3473.

Clinics by youth percussion artist Osborne have been enthusiastically received from coast to coast by students, teachers and professionals, the local drum instructor reported.

Commenting about a recent clinic, W. S. Johnson of the L. D. Heater Music Co. in Beaverton, Ore., said, "Don's playing is perfection personified. His 'time' is unbelievable and he gains immediate empathy with his audience, too.... a phenomenon in one so young. He fielded all questions with a maturity far beyond his years."

Osborne is recognized today as one of the most outstanding drummers in the USA, Fornasewski stated.

PERCUSSION ARTIST Don Osborne Jr., a protégé of Buddy Rich, who will conduct a drum clinic, sponsored by John Fornasewski Drum Studio and Music Store of Granite City, at St. John United Church of Christ fellowship hall, 2801 Nameoki Road, at 7:30 p.m. Monday. BETROTHED. Miss Gail LaVerne Forshee, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Forshee, 2133 Amos Ave., are announcing her engagement to Raymond P. Fritzsche. A late fall wedding is planned. (Lansbury Photo)

Gail Forshee is bride-elect

Plans for a late fall wedding were disclosed with the announcement of the engagement of Miss Gail LaVerne Forshee and Raymond P. Fritzsche by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Forshee, 2133 Amos Ave.

The prospective bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald P. Fritzsche, 2800 E. 24th St. He graduated in 1956 from Granite City High School and in 1963 from the University of Illinois.

where he was a member of Beta Sigma Psi social fraternity. Mr. Fritzsche is employed at General Steel Industries.

Miss Forshee was graduated from Granite City High School in 1968 and Blackburn College in Carlinville, Ill. in 1972.

At the present time she is employed in the office of the county supervisor of assessments in Edwardsville. She will teach the fourth grade at Caseyville School starting this fall.

Receive Pope's blessing

Five Madison residents were among a group of vacationists who returned this week from a month-long tour of European countries, including a visit to Italy where Pope Paul VI conferred his blessings in a courtyard audience.

Among those traveling on the overseas air tour from here were Mrs. Conole Grupa and daughter, Angela, Mrs. Grupa's mother, Mrs. Eva Majkut, and her aunt and uncle, Mrs. Mary Doctor and Leonard Dyjeski.

A total of 180 persons made the trip under sponsorship of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America Lodge. Most were from the Chicago area.

Many points of interest were viewed at historic landmarks in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Italy and Denmark. Relatives also were visited by the local residents in Czechoslovakia, including the families of Joseph Turksi, Serafin Majkut and Stanley Trelnice.

A highlight of the trip was a special audience with Pope Paul VI at the pontiff's summer palace at Castelgandolfo, Italy. The United States visitors were received during a courtyard audience attended by nearly 1,500 persons.

At the location of the famous painting—"Our Lady of Czestochowa"—in Poland, a private Mass was celebrated for the travelers in deference to the presence of two priests who accompanied the lodge members.

Future Secretaries plan events for new season

Plans for a year of activities for members of the Granite City Future Secretaries Association were developed in a meeting at the home of Mrs. Judi Sparks, faculty advisor.

Attending were Sharon Mang, Diane Daugherty, Pat Stanton, Cathy Butler, Nancy Vunovic, Jill Scarborough and Barb Siebert, all members of the FSA board of directors, and Miss Lucille Aramowicz, faculty advisor.

Representatives of the Tri-Cities Chapter, National Secretaries Association, who were in attendance, included Mrs. Mary Gain, Mrs. Linda Fricke and Mrs. Charlene Vunovic.

It was agreed that after the advisors have ascertained those students who meet the requirements for FSA membership, the members will meet at the high school to prepare invitations to be sent out at the beginning of the new school year. The membership requirements have been listed from previous years to limit the size of the chapter.

Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, was set for installation of new FSA officers and initiation of the new members. The first program of the school year will be a skit entitled "The Unpolished Gem."

In December, the board will select secretaries from various fields to form a panel and present the program. It is anticipated that the FSA chapter again will participate in Christmas activities planned by the Tri-Cities Chapter, NSA, for residents of the Madison County Shelter Care Home. January's program will be another skit by the members—"Do's and Don'ts for the Beginning Secretary." Mrs. Gail Foley, CPS, a member of the Tri-Cities Chapter, and director of the Secretarial School of the Patricia Stevens Career College, has been selected as the speaker in February.

In March, the members will travel to Wood River for a combined meeting with the Alpha Iliis FSA chapter. April will include a field trip to an office in St. Louis, hopefully the Gateway Tower Building, and KMOX Radio and television, if plans can be finalized.

May's activities will highlight the FSA year, with the announcement of the Business Teacher of the Year, and awarding of the FSA award to a senior member, plus the Junior FSA award to the most active junior member.

Norman Orick is the reigning Business Teacher of the Year. In order to raise money for the treasury to help defray the initiation and installation costs, it was decided that a bake sale would be held at Bellemore Village. Any FSA member who was unable to participate in the bake sale will be encouraged to make a monetary donation to the chapter.

Other money-raising projects will be selected by the Ways and Means Committee later in the school year.

Although the FSA students will be divided among the two local high schools, there will be to be just one chapter, with the meetings alternating between the two schools.

McMahon chairman of telethon

Joseph McMahon, vice-president of the International Association of Fire Fighters, has been named Greater St. Louis general chairman of The New Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon.

In announcing McMahon's appointment, Thomas Neels, district director of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, indicated McMahon and the labor organization he heads in St. Louis—Local 73 of the IAFF—have a long and impressive record of concern for the area's muscular dystrophy victims.

The New Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon will originate this year in Las Vegas with pick-ups from New York, Hollywood and Nashville. It will be broadcast in St. Louis on KPLR-TV, Channel 11 from 9:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 3 until its conclusion on Monday evening, Sept. 3.

Gen. John E. Sterling to Assume support command post

Brigadier General John Sterling will assume the post of deputy commander at the Headquarters Army Troop Support Command, St. Louis, on Aug. 20. He has served for the past three years as Director of Site Activation at the Army SAFEGUARD System Command, Huntsville, Ala.

Gen. Sterling is a native of Colorado Springs. He is a 1946 graduate of the Military Academy and earned his masters degree in Civil Engineering at the University of Illinois in 1953.

A combat engineer and parachutist, Gen. Sterling has held key command and staff positions. His overseas assignments have taken him to Korea, Japan, Turkey, the Dominican Republic and Vietnam.

In Vietnam, he participated in four campaigns and led his engineer units in combat support, airfield construction, land clearing and operational support missions.

His numerous citations and awards include: Legion of Merit with two Oak Leaf Clusters; Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters; Joint Service Commendation Medal; Army

GEN. J. E. STERLING

Commendation Medal; Vietnam Service Medal with four campaign stars; Republic of Vietnam Civic Action Honor Medal with four campaign stars; Republic of Vietnam Civic Action Honor Medal with Palm; Republic of Vietnam Honor Medal, First Class; Republic of Vietnam Armed Forces Cross of Gallantry with Gold Star.

PROMOTED. Private, E-2, Dennis R. Vogeler, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Vogeler, 2208 Amos Avenue, has his new insignia of grade pinned to his uniform by Colonel A. J. Martino, Deputy Depot Commander, Atlanta Army Depot, Georgia. Vogeler entered the service in September 1972, was assigned to the Depot in January 1973, and has been assigned as a motor vehicle operator for the Depot Commander. He is a graduate of Granite City High School and attended McKendree College in Lebanon.

14.8 million benefited by family food programs

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has reported its preliminary estimates on the operation of food assistance programs in the month of June.

A total of 14.8 million people is estimated to have benefited from the family food programs in June, slightly less than the 14.9 million in May 1973, but an increase over the 14.6 million participating in June 1972. This total includes participation in the food stamp program and the food distribution program.

Participation in the food stamp program in June totaled 12.4 million people, the same as the May 1973 figure, but was 800,000 larger than the 11.6 million participating in June 1972. The value of bonus food stamps issued to recipients totaled $177.7 million.

The number of people taking part in the food distribution program decreased slightly to an estimated 2.4 million from the 2.5 million reported for May 1973. Participation was down 600,000 from June 1972 as areas continued to switch from food distribution to food stamps.

As schools closed for the summer months, participation in the national school lunch program went to 11.4 million children this June, up 200,000 from a year ago.

Of these 11.4 million a total of 4.4 million children received their meals free or at reduced prices. This was up about a quarter of a million from June 1972.

These figures reported today are preliminary and subject to later revision.

The food programs are administered by USDA's Food and Nutrition Service in cooperation with State and local Governments.

Walker gets new post at Laclede Rites today for Perry Sexton

Jon R. Walker has been promoted to Manager - Personnel Services, a new position within the Industrial Relations Department at Laclede Steel Co.

In his new position, Walker will be responsible for all personnel and industrial engineering services at the steel firm's plants in Alton and Madison.

An employee of Laclede Steel Co. since 1955, Walker has been manager of personnel since 1968.

Walker, a native of Bethalto, was graduated from Civic Memorial High School and attended Shurtleff College and Washington University. He is a member of the Greater Alton Chamber of Commerce, the Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association and the Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

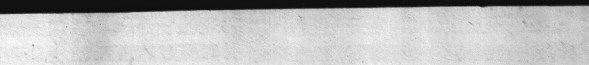

Walker, his wife Phyllis Dorsey Walker and their three children live in Moro, Ill.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. today at Mercer Mortuary for Perry Sexton, 9-year-old boy who was fatally injured at 9:45 p.m. on Saturday while crossing U.S. 131 at North Street, north of Rock Road intersection.

Burial was in St. John Cemetery, 2301 Nameoki Road.

A fourth-grade pupil at McKinley Grade School, he was a son of Mrs. Bonnie Sexton, 2340 Grand Ave., and Ray Sexton of Granite City.

HERE'S HOW You can waterproof sun deck

By GENE GARY
Copley News Service

Q I have a problem. Every time it rains, my sun deck floor leaks. It is tongue-and-groove fir flooring, which I porch-and-deck enamel, but it doesn't do any good. The deck is six feet wide, the length of the house, and it has about a two-inch pitch. It was suggested that I put on another floor covering on top of the old, but this won't work because it would raise the height of the floor so much that the door would not open. We seldom use the deck. Is it possible to use some kind of heavy canvas glued down to the floor to stop it from leaking? — Michael W., East Hampton, Conn.

A. There are finishes which will give you a waterproof surface without noticeably increasing the thickness of the sun deck floor. A latex mastic neoprene composition can be applied in several successive trowel applications. This provides an elastic membrane, thick, the product comes in several colors and will expand and contract with the underlying decking material without cracking or buckling. It is best to have this job done by a professional experienced in the technique, at a cost of say $1.25 to $1.50 a square foot, although it is possible for you to tackle the job yourself. Another product that would solve your problem is a clear epoxy resin, sold at building supply firms. Apply three coats of this resin at two-hour intervals with a paint brush or roller.

Q We recently purchased a home with high-beamed ceilings. We did not observe at first but later discovered that for some reason both the walls and ceiling are painted the same color — white. It gives the impression of enormous height to the interior. Is there some way to remove the paint from those large and white beams and ceiling, other than by the difficult and time consuming sanding of the wood?

A. Really, there is no easy way. A paint removal job of this size is both a sloppy, tedious job. However, there are some new products which may make the task a bit easier. One is a new electric paint remover which can remove multiple coats of paint down to the bare wood. The removal is accomplished by a heating unit of stainless steel which "blisters" the paint. The manufacturer says it can be used inside or out, and on flat, curved or irregular surfaces. This tool retails for about $13. After the paint has been removed, the surface should be sanded smooth before refinishing with a clear finish or sealer to retain the natural color of the wood. Another new product is a spray-on paint remover, which offers the convenience of spray can application and the results of the bulk removers which must be applied with brushes. The claim for this product is that it takes off the most stubborn paints and varnishes. It is manufactured in Woodstock, Ill.

Jolly Six meet at Eggleys home

Mrs. Fern Eggleys entertained members of the Jolly Six Club in her home, 2528 Grand Ave., during the weekend.

Games were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Della Hagan, Mrs. Carolyn Lux and Mrs. Lucy Williams. Others participating in the games were Mrs. Emma Gobbie, Mrs. Avis Moore and the hostess.

Refreshments were served Mrs. Gobbie invited the group to meet in her home, 2528 Edwards St., for the next party.

THE FORUM

To the Editor:

In a time when the whole nation echoes an outcry against pollution, when everyone is speaking out on the destruction of clean air and pure water, six million children's voices are but part of the chorus. But for these children, it isn't just a matter of clean air, for theirs is a constant struggle to breathe, no matter what the atmosphere.

Six million young boys and girls, whose lungs are crippled, whose breathing is labored, are suffering chronic and serious lung diseases. They are voices to be heard. Cystic Fibrosis, an inherited disease, is incurable. It strikes one in every 1,500 newborns, the result of both parents carrying the defective CF gene. It is believed that one in 20 persons is a carrier of this disease, which causes serious lung damage, repeated respiratory infections, and intestinal complications.

Severe asthma with lung damage, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, and a condition sometimes called childhood emphysema, attack the young and damage the lungs. Seventeen years ago, a group of parents seeking to find answers to the baffling Cystic Fibrosis which had struck their families, formed the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation and began to raise limited funds to call attention to the program and start research to find a control.

Twelve years ago, the C-F Center Program was expanded to a nationwide network of centers, where physicians, nurses and other medical personnel could learn to diagnose and treat the disease. At that time, almost all children born with Cystic Fibrosis died before reaching the age of four. Today, that meager beginning has grown into a national organization which raises funds through the "Breath of Life Campaign" in local communities. There are 117 C-F Chapters, and some 200 branches to advise and help parents and administer local programs and fund-raising.

There are 110 C-F centers, to which 12,000 C-F patients are coming—with an estimated 25,000 undiagnosed cases suspected. The National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation supports the research of scientists throughout the world, who seek to find the causes, and a control for the deadly disease. Today, C-F infants have a good chance at longer and more productive lives, for many are living into their teens and beyond into young adulthood, the result of improved medical care and expanded research.

And today, some 17 years after these parents struggled to begin, C-F children are not the only ones benefitting from treatment and research devoted for their care. Children with other related lung diseases, whose symptoms are similar to C-F, respond very favorably to much the same treatment. Their suffering is alleviated, and many times, cures are effected.

The answer sought by that small group of parents in 1953, still has not been found. But today there is real hope, based on the realities of more public understanding, more public support, more advanced research and better care. Interest in the study of genetic diseases has grown to significant proportions in the scientific community, and C-F research can only benefit from this heightened interest, as it is considered a model for genetic lineage, due to its complex nature.

But with this progress—the need of millions of children who struggle to breathe has grown larger—and with it, the need for more volunteers and more funds.

"Never take breathing for granted" is the theme of the Breath of Life Campaign. All of us are concerned about breathing clean air—these children are concerned about breathing, period.

All of us who really care can help. Give as generously as you can, of your money, and your volunteer time, to the current Breath of Life Campaign scheduled in the Quad-City area Sept. 9 thru Sept. 16. District chairmen and door-to-door marchers are still needed. Contact the Quad-City area chairman.

Please. Don't take breathing for granted.

Shop centers top building development

A summary of development news in Madison, St. Clair and Monroe Counties, by Illinois Metro East include:

Groundbreaking ceremonies have been held at the site of the new Southern Illinois National Bank building at Fairview Heights. The new 35,000 square foot, three-story structure will be built on a tract located near the Illinois 159-Interstate 64 intersection.

Plans for development of a fifth area K-Mart store are now being finalized. The newest area facility is proposed to be built at Fairview Heights along U.S. Highway 50. K-Mart presently operates stores in Belleville, Collinsville, and Wood River and has a new facility now under construction in Granite City.

Plans for four new shopping centers were in the news recently. Merrill Ottwein announced a shopping center in Bethalto just north of the Civic Memorial Airport and another shopping center in Glen Carbon at the intersection of Illinois 159 and Cottonwood Station Road. Earl Wilson has proposed a new shopping center for the property south of the Riedel's restaurant and east of Illinois 159 at the southern edge of Edwardsville.

A proposal to construct a $4.5 million commercial center at the site of the Academy of Notre Dame met active public opposition at a recent public hearing in Belleville, most of the objections seemed to center around the fear that the project might lower property values in the residential areas.

Over 5,000 building construction laborers from 12 southern Illinois counties, including the Metro East Area, have returned to work after the settlement of a one day strike. The agreement provides for a 20-cent hourly increase effective Aug. 1 and another 20 cent increase Feb. 1; current wage rate in Madison and St. Clair counties is $7.85 per hour. Carpenters in Madison County remained off their jobs due to a strike over wages.

Parks were part of the recent news in the area. A nature trail along the abandoned right of way of the Illinois Terminal Railroad southwest of Edwardsville has been proposed by the education and recreation committee of the Madison County Board of Supervisors.

In St. Clair County a steering committee to consolidate efforts and proposals for improvements to Frank Holtz State Park was formed this week; eight organizations are currently represented on the 15-member committee.

The City of Belleville, as part of its efforts to develop 22 acres adjacent to Walnut Hill Cemetery into a park, has invited consultants from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the University of Illinois to prepare proposals for the development of this park site.

It was reported this week that a half interest in the Alton and Southern Railway Co. has been acquired by the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Co. (Cotton Belt) from the Chicago and North Western Transportation Co. For $8 million. The Missouri Pacific Railroad owns the other half of the Alton and Southern.

The Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development has reported that 261 firms have established new operations or expanded existing facilities in the state during the first six months of 1973. These industrial developments are expected to create over 16,000 new jobs.

The Illinois Pollution Control Board has adopted regulations designed to limit noise levels from stationary industrial sources. The Board has given industries from one to three years to reach compliance with the new regulations. Fines of up to $10,000 per day of violation could be imposed upon violators.

Rites Friday for Mrs. Kenner

Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Friday at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Madison for Mrs. Sharon Lorraine (Banassak) Kenner, 21, of Medford, Ore., formerly of Madison, who died last week as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident in Madras, Ore.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Edwardsville Township.

Ponce to train in vocational field

Peter Ponce, teacher at the Venice High School, has been selected to participate in a one-year program designed to provide training to teachers of vocational education in the duties of the vocational director.

The program is funded by the State of Illinois, Division of Vocational-Technical Education and is a joint project by the Departments of Occupational Education and Education Administration and Foundation, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

During the coming year, Ponce will perform many of his regular duties, receive training as a vocational director within his school system and will attend weekly classes conducted by Southern Illinois University.

Payroll system expanded

Comptroller George W. Lindberg has announced he has awarded a $12,150 contract to Price Waterhouse & Co., Chicago, for development of an expanded payroll system in the Comptroller's Office.

The new system will permit the Comptroller to begin writing paychecks for 41,000 state university employees, in addition to checks he now writes for 14,000 persons on the state payroll.

Lindberg is mandated by the statute to begin writing the university payrolls by July 1, 1974. The task is now performed by the institutions of higher education themselves.

Price Waterhouse was the lowest of six firms which bid for the project.

Lindberg said he utilized bidding procedures to insure that cost of developing the new payroll system would be the lowest possible, though bidding on such work is not required by law.

The contract award was the last in a series in the Comptroller's Office aimed at gaining professional assistance in implementing the mandates of the 1972 Comptroller's Act.

On June 13, the Comptroller announced awards to two other professional consulting firms totaling $1,354,000 for technical work in warrant processing, accounting systems and standards and training areas, also following competitive bids.

An earlier series of bids for the payroll system work was rejected by the Comptroller after his staff and advisors from private industry determined the bidders should have been more responsive to specifications.

The systems being designed by the three firms will provide:—A new statewide central accounting system, —One location for state financial records, including current information on the state's financial condition, —Faster state bill payments to private businessmen, —More detailed verification of planned expenditures, —Analysis of contracting practices, and —Added capacity for writing 3.8 million income tax refund checks and payrolls for 41,000 university personnel yearly.

Wallace G. Manier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Manier, 712 "J" Old Alton Road, has enlisted in the Navy.

NEW BILL VETO

On Aug. 16, 1972, President Nixon vetoed an inflationary bill appropriating $30.5 billion for the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Du Quoin—It's countdown time around around the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds and all indications point toward the 1973 edition as being the biggest and best in the Fair's 51-year history.

Set to open Saturday, Aug. 25, the Du Quoin extravaganza will be the final summer fling for thousands of Southern Illinoisans as well as even more visiting from outside the area.

Being a "year of decision" with the Hambletonian Society, a 21-member group which governs the prestigious Hambletonian trotting classic, Du Quoin Fair officials have concentrated on producing the finest and most complete race day since 1967 when the world-famous event was switched to Southern Illinois.

Special Hambletonian Day activities will include a 10 a.m. address by noted speaker Tom Hagga, sponsored by area I.G.A. stores. A noon parade, led by the University of Illinois

Berz named liquor control head

Michael R. Berz of Kankakee has been named as chairman of the Illinois Liquor Control Commission by Gov. Dan Walker.

Marching band, will precede the afternoon racing card.

The "Festival of Music Show" starring Boots Randolph, Floyd Cramer, Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass, Jody Miller and Kathy Rigby, starring at 8 p.m., will close out the day's scheduled events.

Certain to attract much attention, however, are the many free shows, the largest carnival midway ever to open in Southern Illinois, educational exhibits which include an actual moon rock and various space travel displays, an authentic Indian village and special promotions for senior citizens, young people, Shriners, legislators and members of the communication media.

Tickets may be obtained by calling 618-245-2126.

Walker also named Chicago Publisher Bruce Sagan as acting chairman of the Illinois Arts Council.

Berz replaced former chairman George M. Burditt of La Grange, who resigned July 27. Burditt based his resignation on an opinion rendered by the attorney general's office which suggested a possible conflict of interest. Burditt had requested the opinion.

Gov. Walker said: "I deeply regret the departure of Burditt who I know would have made an outstanding chairman of the commission. I have appointed Berz in order to prevent any disruption in the work of the commission. Berz' familiarity with the cases, the investigations, and the personnel will insure continuity."

Berz had served briefly as acting chairman of the commission. Berz, 35, has been a member of the commission since Jan. 22. He is a former Kankakee County assistant state's attorney and assistant public defender.

His appointment to the commission was confirmed June 7 by the Illinois Senate by a vote of 42 to 2.

Sagan is publisher of the 22 Economist Newspapers which serve communities in the southern and western areas of Chicago and the suburbs.

He has been a member of the

Grant's City Press-Record Thur., Aug. 16, 1973 Page 19

Arts Council since 1969, when he was appointed by former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

He was active as a Chicago theatrical producer from 1964 through 1968. He and his wife, Judith, have also produced frequent dance festivals in the Chicago area since 1965.

Rands heads SIUE chemistry dept.

Appointment of David G. Rands as chairman of the chemistry department in the School of Science and Technology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been approved by the SIUE Board of Trustees. The appointment is effective Sept. 8.

Rands joined the SIUE chemistry faculty in 1969 and served in 1970-71 as chief academic officer on the staff of the Board of Trustees. He is a Collinsville resident and is a former president of the Illinois Academy of Science.

In other personnel actions the trustees approved Dr. Frank J. Sobkowksi of Edwardsville, new dean of the SIUE School of Dental Medicine at Alton, as special assistant to the president for health education. Dr. Stanley P. Haseen will become dean of the dental school Sept. 1.

New continuing faculty appointments were approved for: Steven J. Hanna as associate professor of engineering in the School of Science and Technology, effective Sept. 24. Edward W. Hudlin as assistant professor of philosophical studies in the School of Humanities, effective Sept. 24.

Arthur Ely Prell as chairman of the marketing department in the School of Business, effective Sept. 16. Prell has taught previously at SIU at Carbondale.

Louis F. Westfield as assistant professor of government and public affairs in the School of Social Sciences, effective Sept. 24.

R. Buckminster Fuller was reappointed as a visiting professor in the Graduate School for one year beginning last July 1.

SIUE expense for MRF set at $52,718

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville expects to incur $52,718 in expenses related to the 1973 Mississippi River Festival and the operation of the site, according to a preliminary report to the SIUE Board of Trustees.

Revenue which the University will receive from Mississippi River Festival, Inc., and from others using the MRF site this year is estimated at $41,853.

The preliminary report is based on estimates of operating expenses for the number of concerts scheduled, and the revenues to be derived based on attendance estimates for each concert.

Attendance during the first week of the Festival exceeded attendance projections made by Festival officials, the trustees were advised.

Expenses listed in the estimate include: Student wages for ushers, gate attendants, marshalls and supervisors, $18,013; box office expense, $12,546; sound and audio director, $6,400; tentmaster, $2,000; tentmaster assistants (labor), $10,159; concert master assistant, including secretarial expense, $2,800.

Revenue expenses listed include $40,000 from a previously authorized contract between SIUE and the Mississippi River Festival, Inc., and $1,859 income from a concert held in May which was not related to MRF.

Cancer Crusade leaders honored

Individuals and groups, who contributed toward the Granite City area's "Crusade Against Cancer" drive received awards at an appreciation party for campaign volunteers held in the Fellowship Hall at St. John United Church of Christ.

Hosting the event were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Luebben, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Christiansen, Glen Chabouds and Miss Barbara Walt.

James R. Heil, Crusade chairman for the Madison County Unit of the American Cancer Society, a special guest at the party, congratulated local volunteer workers and stated that contributions in the county-wide campaign have surpassed previous years, with "close to $90,000 raised for cancer research, education and services."

Mrs. Glen Chabouds, area co-chairman, expressed appreciation to those participating in the local fund raising drive, which resulted in donations of nearly $8,000, about $200 over last year's record breaking Crusade.

Heil presented awards and certificates to area co-chairmen, Earl Dotzauer and Mrs. Chabouds, and to Mrs. Walter Radick, neighborhood captain, whose unit raised the most funds and Mrs. Davis Nagy, individual Crusade volunteer, whose soliciting efforts resulted in the top single collection of $116 in donations to the 1973 drive.

Others receiving awards were Joseph Lucido, special events chairman; Rollin Heen, Youth Crusade chairman; Ronald Luebben, recognition committee chairman; and representatives of Boy Scout troops 35 and 18, who assisted at the Youth Crusade roadblock. Entertainment at the party was furnished by the Eagles' Kitchen Band of Granite City Eagles Auxiliary Unit 1126, led by Mrs. Angie Buchler.

Refreshments were served and several prizes were awarded to those attending the festivities.

Area business firms contributing gifts and refreshments for the event, included Schulze & Burch, Biscuit Co.; Schermer's Market; First Granite City National Bank; Farm & Home Savings Association; State Radio & TV; First National Bank in Madison; Petri's Cafe; Franklin Union; W. T. Grant Co.; Pepsi-Cola Co.; Reese Drug Stores and The Nestle Co., Inc.

Hampton-Milton nuptials

The wedding of Miss Brenda D. Milton and John Hampton took place at the First Baptist Church in Glen Carbon on June 30, with the Rev. Martin Brown officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Lacy W. Milton, Highway 151. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Hampton of Glen Carbon.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of white chiffon designed in a princess style. The dress featured a high neckline edged in narrow lace and lace was repeated on the cuffs of the long sleeves.

She wore a beaded headpiece to secure her bouffant veil and carried a bouquet of white shasta daisies.

Miss Rhonda Stroeimer was maid of honor and Miss Tammy Milton, a sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. They chose floor length gowns fashioned of pink silk and held bouquets of daisies in shades to match their frocks.

Attending the groom as best man was Ronnie Matthews. Jim Overholt was groomsman and Bill Brown acted as the groomsman.

Immediately following the evening ceremony a reception

Navy Mothers honored today

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler has proclaimed today as Navy Mothers' Day and requests all citizens to pay respect and honor to those mothers "who have sacrificed so much."

The Navy Mothers' Clubs of America are composed of mothers whose sons and daughters served in the United States Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. Purpose of the organizations is charitable and educational and members provide funds and items needed by servicemen in Naval and Veterans hospitals throughout the country.

Mrs. Mary Lee Busler serves as commander of the Quad-City Navy Mothers Club that has a membership of 54 mothers. The club meets twice a month with one business and one social meeting. They actively support both the Naval and Veteran hospitals in various parts of the country as well as giving aid to veteran families in the community and other civic projects.

Governor's Roundup scheduled tonight

The Governor's Roundup will be held this evening at St. Margaret Mary Church, 1000 St. Clair Ave., starting at 7:30. All unit members from Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorer Posts in the Unimark District have been invited to participate.

Unit leaders attending and meeting qualifications will be awarded a special commemorative "Governor's Cup." Guy Cooper, chairman of the special program, said details also will be given concerning a free matinee performance at the Washington Theatre, featuring "Scouts Good Turn Day."

The matinee will be sponsored by the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, Cooper said.

BRADFORDS' NAME—DAUGHTER BRANDIE LYNN Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bradford, 2538 Paul Ave., are announcing the birth of their fourth child, a girl, born Aug. 11 at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The new arrival weighed two pounds, seven ounces and has been named Brandie Lynn. She has been transferred from the local hospital to Children's Hospital in St. Louis.

The Bradfords also have two sons, Roy, 9 and Richard 7, and a daughter, Ann, who is 4.

HEALTH How to preserve eyesight

By MARION WELLS
Copley News Service

Are you looking out for common safety hazards which threaten your eyes? We encounter such hazards constantly, and remaining blind to them could cause us to lose our precious gift of sight. Here's how you can exercise a little foresight in everyday situations.

When an eyelash or dirt speck gets caught in your eye, blink before you rub. The membranes protecting your eyeball and inner lid are fragile, and rubbing could scratch them. It could also push the invading speck or eyelash deeper into your eye tissue, possibly leading to infection.

Take advantage of your body's natural eyewash — tears. Gently take hold of your upper lashes, pull your lid outward and down, and hold it there for a few seconds. If this doesn't wash the foreign body out, you may need to repeat the procedure, finally wiping with a soft, clean tissue or cloth.

Should the speck still fail to come out, put your thumb on the tip of your lower lid and press down while you look toward the ceiling. If this doesn't work, see an ophthalmologist (a medical doctor specializing in eye care).

To protect your children's eyes, keep sharp tools and instruments, bows and arrows, B-B guns, firecrackers, explosives and other possibly harmful things out of sight and out of reach. When you're out on that nature trail, be careful not to let a branch snap back in someone else's face.

If your eyes accidentally get splattered with acids, alkalis, other chemicals, hot oil, cigarette ash or match sparks, call your physician without delay. Till he can get to you or you can get to him, irrigate your eyes with water only and protect with a sterile compress, avoiding pressure. Prompt action can make a SIGHT-MAKING difference.

Eye examinations by an ophthalmologist or an optometrist (a licensed nonmedical practitioner who can measure your vision and prescribe corrective lenses, but cannot treat medical eye problems) are vital in protecting your vision. Children's eyes should be checked before entering school, and preferably earlier. Having a hard time seeing may cause your child to have a hard time learning. Such a situation can lead to secondary emotional disorders.

Your ophthalmologist will tell you how often he feels your eyes need to be examined. Authorities recommend that people over the age of 35 have their eyes checked at least once a year. Glaucoma, the No. 2 cause of blindness in the United States, is most prevalent in this age group. Glaucoma may go unnoticed while it gradually, painlessly and irreversibly destroys your sight.

Wilfred D. David, M.D., former executive director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, suggested periodic checkups by an ophthalmologist to guard against possible eye-threatening side effects if you are taking certain types of medication. Such medications include steroids, diuretics, oral contraceptives, antibiotics, central nervous system depressants and stimulants for such conditions as diabetes, cardiovascular disease and rheumatoid arthritis.

Experts warn that trying to treat your eyes yourself can be dangerous. Over-the-counter eye medications cannot cure eye problems. At best, they may relieve symptoms.

For a healthier "outlook," keep an eye on your health!

For more eye-openers, take a look at the chapter called "Seeing Is Believing," in the new paperback anthology "Health Is a Poppin'." The book, a collection of health hints by leading national authorities, is compiled by the American Physical Fitness Research Institute and is available through them for $1.25 to cover costs. You may also find it in book stores.

Miss Janis Etheridge and Joseph W. Vitale are wed

Miss Janis Christine Etheridge, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Etheridge, 15 Terrace Lane, and Joseph Walter Vitale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vitale, 609 Valencia St., Belleville, exchanged wedding vows at 7 o'clock, Aug. 11, at the First United Presbyterian Church. Bridesmaids of yellow gossamer and white pom poms decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. David Bruce Maxton.

Following the service, the church organist played "One Hand, One Heart" and "Love Theme from Romeo and Juliet."

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Etheridge wore a white organza over tulle gown designed with a skirt gathered at the sides and back and bordered at the hemline with a ruffled flounce.

Full bishop sleeves with very wide cuffs edged in Venice lace were set in a bodice accented with rows of Venice lace and white satin insertion ribbon. Ribbon and lace formed the high collar, center trim and extended over the shoulders in a semi V effect.

She wore a Juliet cap enhanced with lace and ribbon braid to secure her mantilla veil, edged in matching lace. The bridal bouquet was an offside cascade of white snow crystal pom poms, white roses, baby breath and camellia foliage, centered with a detachable corsage of white roses.

Miss Jacy Clark, maid of honor, and bridesmaid, Miss Mary Ann Gusewelle, a cousin of the bride, appeared in yellow organza frocks styled identically to the bridal gown.

They wore white picture hats with yellow organza braiding and long streamers. Each held an arm bouquet of yellow carnations and white daisy pom poms, festooned with yellow streamers.

Michael Moses attended the groom as best man and James Perry served as groomsmen. Larry Vitale, a brother of the groom, and Randy Beck, the bride's cousin, were ushers.

Mrs. Etheridge, the bride's mother, chose a pink flower length dress tailored in a shirtwaist fashion and accented with white collar and cuffs.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Vitale, selected a sleeveless knit formal length dress with a floral print bodice and a yellow skirt. Both mothers wore white candelabra orchid corsages.

Miss Karel Webb presided over the guest book at a reception given at the church fellowship hall immediately following the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Etheridge, parents of the bride, were hosts at a rehearsal dinner in their home.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Granite City High School, is attending Belleville Area College.

A 1967 graduate of Assumption High School, Mr. Vitale also is a student at Belleville Area College.

The newly married couple will reside in Belleville following a wedding trip.

Out-of-town guests at the ceremony included Mr. and Mrs. Ted Skrabacz, Jack Massey, Miss Paulette Edfrink, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wojcik Jr., Miss Anna Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wojcik, Miss Carolyn Schuff, Thomas Eick, Miss Theresa Timmer, Mary Ann Denham, Debbie Voges and Cindy Lauff, Mr. and Mrs. John Bulthoetter and son, Johnny, the groom's parents and family, Cyndee, Debbie, Larry, Tina, Sheila and Chris Vitale.

Mrs. Fannie Brockus, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Gusewelle and Maria, Mr. and Mrs. Don Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Perry, Mrs. George Beck Sr., Mrs. Nina Volz, Mrs. Kate Vitale, Miss Diane Sturgess, Mrs. Rose Sturgess, Miss Kathy Gelsche, Opus 56 (Jetties), by Beethoven; Dover Beach, Opus 3 (Arnold), by Samuel Barber, and Don Quixote, a Dalcroze (Morand) by Maurice Ravel.

A string quartet will accompany the Barber number.

Mabrey is chairman at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church.

The program will include five songs on texts of Goethe by Franz Schubert; An der ferne Geliebte, Opus 56 (Jetties), by Beethoven; Dover Beach, Opus 3 (Arnold), by Samuel Barber, and Don Quixote, a Dalcroze (Morand) by Maurice Ravel.

Bobby Lipchik marks birthday

The first birthday of Bobby Lipchik was celebrated this week with a party given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lipchik, 309 Maryville Road.

A decorated cake topped with a candle was served with the refreshments to his grandparents, Mrs. Rosa Schaffner and Mr. and Mrs. James Lipchik, and other relatives and friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lipchik and daughter, Anne Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hillman and son, Matthew, Mrs. Kathy Calvert and children, Chris and Kim, and the honoree's sister, Patty and brother, Jerry.

Gifts were presented and pictures taken during the evening.

Betty Dick is party honoree

Miss Betty Dick was honored with a personal shower given by Mrs. Jane Harshbarger in her home, 204 Edwards St., during the weekend.

The gift table was decorated in white and pastel shades of green. Games were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Beth Spangler, Mrs. Mary French and Mrs. Grace Lohn.

Others attending were Mrs. F. J. M. A. R. Y. Hiltrey, Florence Tempo, Loraine Bischoff, Clara Huber, Sharon Cassey and Miss Mary Siebert and the honoree's mother, Mrs. Ruth Dick.

Miss Dick will become the bride of Neal Kuhn at Central Christian Church on Sept. 1.

GENEVA PROTOCOL. On Aug. 13, 1973, President Nixon requested that the Soviet Union ratify the 1925 Geneva protocol against use of chemical and biological warfare.

Lucia Barbieri becomes Mrs. Dennis Suedkamp

St. Elizabeth Roman Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Lucia Ann Barbieri, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Barbieri, 2142 Waterman Ave., and Dennis Suedkamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Suedkamp, 4851 Hillburg St., St. Louis, at 7 p.m. Aug. 10.

Burning tapers in brass candelabra illuminated the aisle and sanctuary for the double ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. James Shortal before an altar decorated with beaus urn filled with white and orange tipped carnations.

Society sisters of the bride, Miss Debbie Bennett, organist and Miss Debbie Sliva, soloist, provided a program of wedding selections throughout the service.

Mr. Barbieri escorted his daughter down the white carpeted aisle and gave her in marriage. She chose a renaissance style gown of ivory tulle, lavishly accented with pearls and lace. The decorative lace formed the high neckline, and lace and pearl motifs enhanced the Empire bodice and full sleeves made with fitted cuffs.

The full detachable train was accented with lace embellished with pearls. She wore a pearl beaded headband to hold in place a bouffant veil and she carried a crescent bouquet of ivory orchids centered in orange baby breath and carnage roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Martha Edmunds, and bridesmaids, Miss Patricia Barbieri, a sister of the bride, Steve Vaughn and Mrs. Cindy Rosenthal, society sisters of the bride, were dressed alike in floor length gowns of ivory sheer silk organza over sand colored tulle.

Their dresses were patterned with apricot and avocado roses and designed with long sleeved bolero jackets trimmed with old fashioned ivory lace and worn over sleeveless bodices.

They carried deep beige fans attached with bouquet of orange carnations, statice, ivory and moss green bows.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Suedkamp, was attired in a gown of pale canary yellow made along princess lines. The long full sleeves of sheer tulle were accented with Venice lace and she carried ivory orchids pinned to her purse.

Attending the groom as best man was Dan McAlvey. David Suedkamp and Bill Barbieri, brothers of the bride and groom, and Steve Vaughn served as groomsmen. Seating the guests were Paul Young, a cousin of the groom and Richard Lucido, the bride's cousin.

Todd Suedkamp, a nephew of the groom, carried the rings on a pillow made by the bride's maternal grandmother for the former Miss Barbieri's mother at her wedding.

Mrs. William Simmons, another sister of the bride, presided over the guest book at a reception held at the Croatian Hall in Madison.

The rehearsal dinner given on the occasion of the bride's birthday was hosted by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Suedkamp, in their home.

After a wedding trip to Fort Lauderdale and Disney World, Fla., the newly married couple will reside in Edwardsville.

The former Miss Barbieri, a graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, is now teaching at St. Paul's High School in Highland. She is a member of Gamma Sigma Sigma Sorority.

Mr. Suedkamp served four years with the U.S. Navy and attended Marquette Junior College for two years. He is employed at Mack Electric Co., St. Louis.

Life a good neighbor. Save time & money. State Farm Insurance Companies. Home Offices: Bloomington, Illinois

Tips on Buying a New Home

by GEORGE C. MARTIN, President, National Association of Home Builders

• First, determine your needs—size of your family, future family needs, type of housing, special amenities.

• Determine what you can afford: downpayment, mortgage and interest, taxes, insurance and operating and maintenance costs.

• The traditional rule-of-thumb is that price should not exceed two and a half times your annual income. Another rule of thumb is that monthly housing costs should not exceed one full week's salary.

• But your own personal guidelines may vary from the rule. If you have large savings or substantial equity in your present house, you may want to spend more for your new home.

• Your way of life, values and family size may call for you to spend more. Some people are more "home-oriented" than others and are willing to eat extra expenses, such as travel and entertainment, to spend more for their homes.

• In picking a neighborhood consider such things as time and distance to place of work, to schools, shopping, churches, availability of public transportation and recreational area, first and second school district, is the neighborhood well kept?

• Shop around for the best possible financing on the mortgage — at savings and loans, mutual savings banks, commercial banks, mortgage companies.

• Find out about the builder. Ask him how he stands behind his work. Ask previous customers about his business reputation and his performance for them.

• When the appointment is made to officially "close" the purchase, ask your builder or in advance for a complete list of closing-day needs. These are cash costs which must be paid when you actually complete the purchase and they are in addition to the price of the home.

• No house is perfect. A house is a complex product, has thousands of parts. All houses are subject to natural changes in soil conditions and shrinkage of wood. Before you take possession understand your responsibilities and the builder's obligations. Discuss this with the builder. Find out what is covered by the builder's warranty and those of the manufacturers of appliances such as furnaces, air conditioners, hot water heaters, etc. Your builder can make available to you a highly useful maintenance book which describes what goes into your new home and how to take care of it.

• When you first consider buying a new home, you might check with the home builder association affiliated with NAHB about obtaining a copy of NAHB's Home Buyers Guide.

decided at a meeting of the chapter last week.

In conjunction with the business session, "Star Recorder" chapter night was observed. Star recorders honored were Mrs. Marian Lipscomb, Mrs. Margaret Fronabarger, Mrs. Ella McKittrick, Mrs. Helen Oberlin and Mrs. Mildred Volzga.

Mrs. Margaret Houseman, senior regent, presided and enrolled eight new members. They are Mrs. Maxine Barnstable, Mrs. Judith Free, Mrs. Vencie Wilkins, Mrs. Beulah Massey, Mrs. Vera Harmon, Mrs. Minnie Brown, Mrs. Ellen Pabst and Mrs. Doretta Manka.

Mrs. Bertha Dudley, a former deputy grand regent, addressed the group.

It was announced that members are invited to attend "Star Recorder" night at the Wood River Women of the Moose chapter.

Plans were made to take part in the annual "Charity Days" bazaar at Nannook Village Shopping Center, scheduled to begin Sept. 13.

Prizes were awarded during a social hour to Mrs. Dudley, Mrs. Dorothy Beck and Mrs. Nancy Greff. Refreshments were served to 44 members and guests.

ATTENDING ART SCHOOL at the University of Illinois, Tina Toth, 3328 Colgate Place, was among 62 students at the school for talented high school artists, conducted by the university's Extension in Visual Arts Program in cooperation with the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. The school was held in the university's conference center near Monticello.

Cats at 4-H Mini Fair judged by Mrs. Taylor

Mrs. David Taylor of the Willow Walk Cattery, 148 Central Ave., Mitchell, served as judge during the "Cat Show" segment of the 4-H Mini Fair at the Madison County Fairground's Exposition Building in Lindendale Park, Highland.

Cat care only recently has been added to 4-H projects and last year's show at Hamel, Ill., was considered so successful that the program was repeated this summer. Mrs. Taylor also served as judge at the previous exhibition.

In the 1973 show, the number of entries from 4-H units in Madison County had doubled from the earlier contest, with more than 30 pets competing, Mrs. Taylor said.

The local cattery owner noted that each pet entered was meticulously groomed and reflected the good care and handling of its owner. Cages in which the animals were carried were attractively decorated to conform to those used in national cat shows, Mrs. Taylor said.

Judging of the pets was followed by a question and answer period pertaining to cat care. Mrs. Sue Cox, 406 Rode Ave., assisted Mrs. Taylor in evaluating the animals.

An increased number of cats is anticipated in next summer's show, the Granite City judge speculated, noting that cat ownership again is on the upswing throughout the United States.

Aquariums, a growing hobby, teach conservation needs

Almost 111 million live fish were imported into the United States during 1972, according to Jamie Thomerson, associate professor of biological sciences at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The import total represents a 12 million increase over 1971.

Nearly 20 million persons in the U. S. own aquariums, Thomerson reports. "It's a big part of a four billion dollar pet industry."

The SIUE ichthyologist has received a $50,000 grant from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U.S. Department of Interior, to do research studies on the impact of commercial collecting on wild-caught ornamental aquarium fishes of South America.

The grant is for a period lasting through June 30, 1975. While the majority of the fishes imported were cultured species from Europe, Asia and 30 per cent of the live fishes imported last year for the U. S. aquarium hobby were wild-caught South American fishes, Thomerson said.

"The research will provide data on commercial collecting practices in countries in greatest aquarium fish concentration, primarily Colombia. The study will include species and life-stage sought, gear used, management efforts, localization of collecting effort relative to total range of species, mortality, time of greatest effort relative to reproduction periods, economic importance of commercial collecting to citizens of the areas concerned and historical aspects involved," he explained.

The study will be carried out intensively in Colombia, Thomerson said, while additional effort will be made as possible in Guyana, Peru and Brazil, the three other countries exporting the largest number of fishes.

"All wild-caught species are regarded as potentially depleted or endangered by commercial collectors until observation demonstrates otherwise," he stated.

Some ichthyologists and aquarists feel that possible plans by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife to severely restrict importation of exotic ornamental fishes by publication in the Federal Register of a short list of "acceptable" imported fishes will "effectively eliminate the importation of hundreds of species of harmless fishes," Thomerson noted. They believe, Thomerson explained, "the economic impact of this restriction could be excessive and even disastrous to the aquarium industry. . . . The aquarium hobby has greatly benefited the cause of conservation by making large numbers of people, especially children, aware of life in the aquatic environment. For most people, there is no more effective means than the aquarium hobby to acquaint them with marine and freshwater life."

Maintenance of an aquarium teaches people as no other common hobby the delicate balance of nature and tenaciousness of life on our planet, Thomerson said.

"People who know about aquaria and their care develop a basic understanding of ecology. This leads to a realization of the need for conservation and balance of nature with the environment," the SIUE educator stated.

To attend Amvets convention

Plans to attend the national convention of Amvets and Auxiliary members were completed last week at a meeting of Amvets Auxiliary Unit 51 at the Post Home, 3100 Lakeside Drive.

The national conference, expected to attract hundreds of World War II, Korean and Vietnam veterans and auxiliary members, is scheduled to take place Aug. 24 through Aug. 26 at the Chase Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

Mrs. Charlotte Damal, auxiliary president, was in charge of the business meeting and reported on a Division 5 conference held at Mount Vernon Post 4 and attended by Mrs. Jackie Petras, Mrs. Glenda Brockman, Mrs. Dama and Mrs. Marie Petras, all of the local unit.

Mrs. Petras also reviewed area scholarship winners announced at an Aug. 4 meeting in Jacksonville, Ill.

A white elephant gift awarded during the social hour was received by Mrs. Etta Clements. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clements and Mrs. Petras.

To mark 25th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Schieb, 4829 Mueller Ave., will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon at an open house.

The affair will be given by their children at St. John United Church of Christ, 2801 Nannook Road, where friends and relatives are invited to call between the hours of 2 o'clock and 5.

The couple was married Aug. 16, 1948 at the Grace Evangelical Church in St. Louis, Mo. They have three daughters, Miss Karen Schieb, Mrs. Maxine Kostoff and Mrs. Brenda Richter, and two grandchildren.

Mr. Schieb is employed at Granite City Steel Co. He has been with the firm the past 26 years.

MARINE SCHIAUS EARNS MERITORIOUS AWARD

Marine Corporal Raymond D. Schiaus, husband of the former Miss M. K. Lewis, 2023 Madison Ave., and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Schiaus, 2106 E. 24th St., has been awarded a Meritorious Mast while serving at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station in California.

A Meritorious Mast is a personal commendation received from a serviceman's commanding officer.

GARAGE SALE U.S.A.

The neighborhood garage sale is sort of an American institution. Like baseball, apple pie, and Chevrolets.

So it seems only natural that Chevrolet should have a Garage Sale.

Ah, but unlike some garage sales you've been to, Chevrolet is not selling antiques. Just shiny new cars, and some tough new trucks.

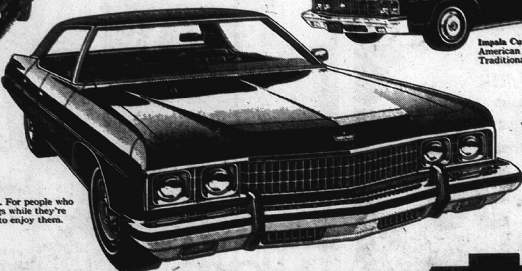

We can't tell you, in this ad, exactly which models and styles and colors. After all, there are over 6000 Chevrolet dealers across the country.

We're simply here to suggest that if you're even remotely in the market for a new Chevrolet, you ought to go down to your dealer's and browse.

With a little luck you'll come up with a big bargain.

Chevrolet Malibu Coupe. For people who love driving as much as we do. A traditional favorite.

Caprice Sport Sedan. For people who want the finer things while they're still young enough to enjoy them.

Impala Custom Coupe. The Great American Value year after year. Traditionally high in resale value, too.

Pictorial signs are appearing on streets

By MARY LOU MANNING
Copley News Service

Springfield—Pictograph, a symbol derived from a realistic drawing of the situation. Get used to the concept because it's going to be around a long time in the form of traffic control devices.

Traffic control devices, all road signs, signals or markings, are being changed in accordance with regulations set by the Federal Highway Administration. Street and highway signs will be converted by January 1, 1975, according to a spokesman from the Department of Transportation. New signs will be installed only when the old ones need replacement. (The average service life of a street sign is five years.)

All signal lights must adhere to the new standards by January 1, 1977. Compliance is a little slower in this area because of the expense. Paving marking is nearly 100 per cent in compliance with the new regulations, according to the DOT.

The major change involves the use of the pictograph versus the printed word. For example, gone will be the yellow diamond-shaped sign with black letters reading "School Crossing."

In its place will be the more readily understood yellow five-sided sign with stick-figures depicting children carrying books crossing the street.

Replacing the old rectangle white sign with "No Left Turn" printed in black will be a white square pictograph with a red circle and slash printed over a black arrow pointing left.

Color, too, plays an important part in the new system. Red will remain a symbol of stop or prohibition with green indicating movements permitted and direction guidance. Blue symbolizes motorist service; yellow, general warning; black and white, regulation; orange, construction and maintenance; and brown, public recreation and scenic guidance.

The signage is divided into four categories: warning, calling attention to potentially hazardous conditions including construction and maintenance sites, regulatory, announcing legally required actions; guidance, indicating destinations, points of interest and recreation and scenic guidance as well as emergency medical facilities; and school.

guiding both pedestrians and motorists.

The conversion was done for several reasons, according to the DOT. They include the success of the similar European system, increased tourism in the United States, the rise in number of non-English-speaking people living in this country, and the movement toward an international traffic control system.

GC man honored for insurance work

John Orear, 21 Tulip Court, local representative for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, has been named a member of United's Century Club, a club honoring excellence in life insurance production.

Selection is based on outstanding performance in life insurance volume and service to policyowners during a 13-week period following graduation from United of Omaha's Career Seminar School.

The school, the first in a series of educational seminars sponsored by United, is designed to develop proficiency in the selling and servicing of life insurance.

Orear is associated with the L. Earl Cutler Agency, general agency for Mutual and United in Belleville.

Prairie Farms tops at fair

Prairie Farms Dairy of Granite City has won the first place award at the Dairy Products Competition at the Illinois State Fair. The entry was for its pasteurized homogenized milk.

Twenty-five entrants in the dairy products department competed for more than $2,000 in prize money. Judging was based on flavor, body and texture, color and package.

Politics on furlough at Illinois state fair

By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service

Springfield—Politics is taking a furlough at the 1973 Illinois State Fair and both parties are happy.

In contrast to other years about the only fair week political activity of note will be a Holiday Inn East luncheon by Republicans honoring recently retired state chairman, Victor L. Smith of Robinson.

The fairgrounds, so often in the past a setting for colorful and lively political rallies will be shunned by the politicians.

Both Republicans and Democrats are content to have it that way. Leaders of neither party are eager to call attention to politics, the entire profession having sunk to a new level in public esteem.

The Republicans, of course, are flooded by Watergate, but Illinois Democrats have had their share of scandals, too, and both parties have been hurt by factional feuding.

Gov. Daniel Walker, who has angered about as many workers in his own Democrat party as he has Republicans, will attract most of the State Fair spotlight. But his own people are relieved that those train and busloads of Chicago warders groups which used to come down to march behind Mayor Daley in Democrat Day pageantry won't be here again this year.

The Walker forces are all but publicly committed to bring down the Daley machine and they want no public identification of the governor with that.

Republicans are also relieved that they will have no Grandstand rally this year. Some of the top echelon are pleased that U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy is once more abroad and will not be there using the State Fair to advance his ambitions for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

There is a sizable faction in Illinois Republican politics which is determined to go all out to block him from that.

Nor would Republicans welcome any large gathering that might produce new explosions in the current feud between Atty. Gen. William J. Scott and House Speaker W. Robert Blair, both aiming for the 1976 gubernatorial nomination.

The low-key political climate at the fair will probably work to the advantage of Walker, who can continue his folksy and apparently successful people-to-people campaign.

The absence of a formal party rally will free him from the embarrassment of trying to make the traditional pointing-with-pride speech of a new governor after his first legislative session and six months in office.

New fall freshmen

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has registered approximately 450 new freshmen for the fall quarter and expects to process another 700 students before fall quarter begins Sept. 24, according to Robert Bruker, director of admissions and records.

There are still three weeks remaining for freshmen orientation at SIUE, and approximately 100 new freshmen went through this orientation program this week.

New freshmen also receive advisement appointments to help students select courses they will take during the fall quarter.

The new freshman orientation program called "new student life" also includes sessions where students get a chance to become acquainted with the campus by living in Tower Lake apartments for a two-day period. Activities during their stay include a tour of the campus, recreation and discussion groups on student life.

The program is in progress throughout the summer quarter so new students can become familiar with SIUE before the fall quarter begins.

Appointments for registration for all other students are still available in the Enrollment Center in the General Office Building.

Open registration, without appointment, will be Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The fall quarter begins Sept. 24 and the deadline for payment of fees is Sept. 27.

Jack Jenkins featured in production "Mass"

Jack Jenkins, a junior student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Jenkins, 3153 Fehling Road, will be playing the organ and electric piano in the production "Mass," by Leonard Bernstein.

The presentation will be performed tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 in the main shrine of Our Lady of the Snows in Belleville.

Included in the musical production will be two choirs, one of which features another Granite Cityan, Miss Mickey Koch, seven soloists, a children's choir and the Scott Air Force Base stage band, all directed by John Czarny and Mrs. Lynn Gilhardt.

SIU's dance team with the choreography arranged by Al White also will participate in the evening performance.

The Mass came into being at the request of the late President John F. Kennedy's widow, whose wish it was that Leonard Bernstein write the dedicatory work for the opening of the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington D.C. on Sept. 8, 1971.

Change exam format for driver license renewal

By MARY LOU MANNING
Copy News Service
Springfield—"Greetings: Not only are you three years older, but it's time to renew your driver's license. Cordially, Secretary of State."

Once every three years Illinois residents who hold a valid driver's license receive a notice "similar" to the one above. It comes about 30 days prior to your birthday and affects some people with the same temporary dread as the often-quoted message from Uncle Sam... especially if it is a white renewal notice.

This is an indication that an examination is necessary for renewal. (If you're 65 or older you'll be tested every three years, anyway. If you're not, you'll be tested once every nine years.)

If you do, indeed, receive a white notice you'll find the written test a little different than three, six or nine years ago. As of March 1, the format has been changed to include 15 road signs and 20 questions pertaining to "rules of the road."

You can miss any seven questions and still pass the test. Previously, if even one road sign was missed you automatically flunked the test.

Included in the 15 road signs you must identify (the questions are multiple choice) are six new symbol signs. At present Illinois is undergoing a conversion to pictograph road signs, a system employing symbols derived from a realistic drawing of the situation as opposed to the printed word.

All signs must adhere to the national standards by Jan. 1, 1975. They are being installed when the old ones need replacing. As the new signs appear, they will often include a smaller sign underneath explaining their meaning in words. Often but not always.

A random sampling of a small, medium and large examination station indicated that these three signs are the most often missed questions on that section.

First place went to the yellow "pedestrian crossing" sign. This new pictograph is diamond-shaped and displays a black stick-figure crossing the street.

The second most often missed sign is a relatively new one: the "road construction" marker. This sign retains the words in black but on the test is identified only by a blank, orange diamond.

One of the most important markers is also the third most often missed question—the "school crossing" sign. Another new pictograph, the marker depicts two stick-figure children crossing the street. The sign is yellow and of a pentagon shape.

Ambulance attendants now in EMT training

The new LTD Ambulance Service located in Pontoon Beach, owned and operated by Don Hahs from his home at 3627 John Glen Drive, will have all attendants trained as Emergency Medical Technicians following completion of the current course on Aug. 30.

Mr. Hahs and his wife, JoAnn, and employees Paul and Phyllis Bower, are enrolled in the technicians training program at St. Mary's Hospital directed by Robert Nash.

Mr. and Mrs. Hahs will take an advanced course at the hospital beginning in September. The ambulance service is now in operation and area residents may call 931-4481 for service.

SIUE Geography Students Know Appalachia—They've Been There

The best way to study a geographical region is to visit it in the company of a trained authority thoroughly familiar with it.

That is exactly what a group of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville students did earlier this summer in Appalachia.

The students organized a class, Geography 450, which visited parts of Kentucky, Tennessee, and North Carolina.

Their instructor was Ronald E. Yarbrough, assistant professor of earth sciences at SIUE, who is a native of Tennessee.

Class members had already studied the region they were to visit through assigned readings.

During the week their chartered bus toured the region, each student applied himself to a particular aspect of the cultural, physical, or economic geography of the area. In addition to a general survey of conditions in Appalachia.

Upon their return, the students began to prepare written reports on their special interests.

For their eight hours of academic credit for the course, therefore, the students studied three ways: in the library, in the field, and in the classroom.

Mrs. Rose Chiste, an undergraduate geography student, was one of the students who initiated the course. "It was a lot of work," she said, "but it's something you just don't get in the classroom."

"It was really a worthwhile educational experience," Mrs. Chiste said.

Many of the 23 students who participated in the course are school teachers.

"When you get into the classroom and you're talking to your students about that region," Mrs. Chiste said, "you can relate it to them in a much more meaningful manner than you could otherwise—because you've been there."

A field study by a geography class from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville included a stop at a coal mine in Kentucky's Cumberland Mountains. Students facing the camera include Bob Barnhart, Edwardsville; Tom Carmody, Granite City; and Roy Earnes, Glen Carbon. The class also visited parts of Tennessee and North Carolina.

Sharon Crouthers of Roxana, a geography student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, examines rocks outside a coal mine in Kentucky's Cumberland Mountains. She was one of 23 SIUE students who traveled through Appalachia in early summer as part of a travel-study course in regional geography.

The Cumberland Mountains of Kentucky were part of an extended field trip taken by a group of geography students from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville early this summer. Mrs. Rose Chiste (right) of Edwardsville was one of the students who initiated the off-campus course. With her is Dave Clayton, also of Edwardsville.

MANDATORY UNION JOINING OPPOSED

To the Editor:

"Shall public employees, including teachers, be required to join or pay fees to a labor union as a condition of their employment?"

This is a question currently being considered by an Illinois Senate sub-committee on industry and labor. The bills in question are grouped under a general title of "collective bargaining in the public sector."

Gene Mittelberg, executive director of an organization known as Illinois Citizens for Right to Work wants that all of the bills under study by the committee contain provisions whereby employees of any public agency or unit of government could be required to pay dues or fees to a labor union (a private organization) in order to get or keep a job on the public payroll. This includes all employees of school systems, non-profit hospitals, city, county and state government.

The Right to Work executive says, "this authorization for the forcible collection of money from employees who will not voluntarily join an organization is a flagrant violation of basic rights."

Mittelberg further explained his organization's position by saying, "We suggest that few taxpayers believe public employees should be compelled to pay a union or employee association for the privilege of working for the government."

Most taxpayers recognize that such compulsion would enable the officials of unions and employee associations to exert excessive influence at all levels of government. We venture to predict that the voting, taxpaying public will take a dim view of any new law which diminishes the public control over jobs provided and paid for by public money."

The Right to Work spokesman emphasized that his organization defends the right of an individual to voluntarily join any union or association, however he says the right to join must be equated with the right to refrain from joining or all liberty is lost.

Illinois Citizens for Right to Work is a state wide coalition of people, including employees and employers, established to expose the injustice of compulsory unionism.

PHASE 4 LIVING!

To the Editor:

With the high cost of every imaginable thing, we are going to need a good sense of humor and a lot of creative thinking in preparing our meals and stretching our food budgets.

A well-known chef said the Depression of the 30's was the best thing that could have happened to her and her family. She really discovered "cooking!" When your budget can stretch, your mind must. You must look in new directions and explore alternatives in preparing meals. She became "a kitchen experimenter."

Many continental "gourmet" dishes were invented long ago to dress up economical cuts of meats, with careful spicing and long cooking, or sometimes to substitute another protein food for meat.

Centuries of wars and famines, as well as centuries of civilized living, have taught both the French and the Chinese peoples to make delicious out of anything edible, from cows' udders and ducks' windpipes to snails and wild grasses!

An open mind and a willingness to experiment are often the mothers of creation. Maybe our husbands and families will be able to say the following about us: "You know, since food prices went up so high, mother has really begun to cook. She loves to be in the kitchen. We used to stick a steak or a couple of chops under the broiler and that was it."

"We really didn't care what we ate, but our grocery bill was awful high each week. Now mom's snooping around the markets for special things, and it smells wonderful when we come into the house. We have steaks, or stuffed cabbage, or braised lamb shanks, or an Oriental rice dish, and all sorts of fresh vegetables we never thought we'd eat."

"You know, we're enjoying it, too. We never knew just what she'll be coming up with next—but we like it!"

Maybe we are getting to be gourmets! Who knows—we Americans may all become the greatest gourmet cooks in the world due to Phase 4 living!

You know, it's not what we have or what is taken from us that matters—but it is how we use what we have right now, today, and each day, that really counts. May each and everyone of us gain a new enthusiasm, a new awareness, of our own creative abilities to be good stewards of God's universe.

May we share and gain strength through Him and through one another, this day, and be able to succeed with our country in this new experience—Phase 4—which we

Environmental cleanup jobs offered

Pollution control jobs for 2,000 jobless and underemployed persons will result from a new $1,850,000 training contract between the U.S. Department of Labor and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

A total of 250 jobs will be provided in the Midwest as follows: Illinois, 50; Indiana, 50; Michigan, 50; Minnesota, 50; and Ohio, 50.

Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan announced that the EPA will promote, develop and subcontract manpower programs in 30 states and Puerto Rico to help alleviate the shortage of skilled sub-professionals in the pollution control and abatement fields. The one-year contract calls for at least 40 per cent of trainees to be hired. Of these, nearly half will be Vietnam-era veterans, with special emphasis on disabled veterans.

The remaining 1,300 training opportunities will be reserved for pollution-control workers in need of skill upgrading.

Trainees will be recruited by municipalities and state agencies, and through referral by local Employment Service offices. On-the-job training will be conducted at the work site

Noise pollution endangers hearing

By JOAN HURARO
Capitol News Service
Springfield—Where noise is concerned, the Illinois EPA believes firmly in speaking softly and carrying a big stick. Since an estimated 16 million people in the U. S. already suffer some degree of hearing loss directly caused by noise, the EPA division of noise pollution control actually believes in doing EVERYTHING softly, and the Pollution Control Board just recently handed them the necessary big stick. Noise pollution control regulations which were unanimously adopted by the PCB at the end of July are aimed at noise as measured at the property line, chiefly by stationary sources. They will become effective anytime from almost immediately to three years from now, depending on how difficult it will be to meet the state levels. Not covered by the regulations are traffic noises, airport noises and the din of construction. These frequently annoying sources of noise aren't getting preferential treatment by the EPA and the PCB; they represent different problems and will be covered by their own set of regulations which are already in the works. Jack Moore, chief of the noise pollution control division of the EPA, said that rules governing ground transportation noises are expected to be completed next, and hopefully will be at the public hearing stage in a year. Public hearings must be held on all proposed regulations before the PCB can act to adopt them. Ground transportation sources which chiefly will concern the EPA are licensed vehicles operating on public roadways, such as trucks, buses and motorcycles. During the same coming year, the division also will continue working on the extremely thorny problem of airport noises, which frequently get residents near major airports so upset it becomes a race to see if deafness, insanity or fatal stroke from over-excitement will come first. Eventually, there also will be regulations to cover the sounds of construction but Moore feels that first things must come first and the division is setting its priorities in terms of the levels where the greatest numbers of people are involved. While the state EPA is also drawing up its own standards, and Moore envisions a day when the amount of noise an air conditioner or a kitchen blender can make all will be regulated. Fortunately, says Moore, emerging federal and state regulations seem to be in concert. He added that federal authority covers items only to the point of sale—that is, the blender someday will have to meet certain standards for quiet when it is manufactured but in the kitchen, keeping it quiet will be the homeowner's responsibility. (Since most Americans think a thing works in direct relation to the noise it makes, they probably will blame the poor manufacturer with grips that the blender doesn't blend like the old one, even if it's really better.)

Some provisions of the new regulations become effective 10 days after the standards are filed with the secretary of state, which Moore estimates will be within the next two weeks. Others will be delayed for one year to allow compliance, while such noise sources as auto race tracks will have two years to comply. The variations cover existing noise sources; new construction must meet the limits initially. If technically impossible—some items are extremely complex and already back-ordered a year or more, he said—various can be issued on appeal to the PCB in valid cases. At the extreme end of the compliance period are such sources as blasting operations, forging hammers and railroad car coupling, since all will pose serious technical problems to be adequately subdued.

Unlike some other pollution areas, Moore stresses, technology for controlling noise has "always been available." The simplest is merely to interrupt the path of sound, as by erecting a baffle or a wall. The more complex the source, the more complicated may be the measures needed to reduce the sound, but it will have to be done, under pain of stiff fines possible for every day the violation continues. "The concept I have," Moore says, "is to work out solutions by conference and consultation between the responsible industry and affected citizenry where possible, though we can and will fall back on penalties if we must. We definitely intend to administer the regulations firmly."

In many areas, the EPA won't move until someone complains—a nuisance isn't a nuisance until it bothers somebody. Moore feels, no matter what the numbers read. To measure the numbers accurately, the division has a battery of recorders, analyzers, meters and even a mini-computer, all used by a surveillance team headed by James Reid who check out every single complaint the division receives. Before citizen start calling about the neighbors' dog or lawn mower, Moore stresses that these things are matters for local enforcement—and lawn care equipment is especially exempt from the new rules when used in the daytime. So are grain dryers on the farm, while the bigger, commercial operations located off the farm are "agriculture related activities" and have a year to comply, Reidsaid.

SUIE seeks $23 million capital funds

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has requested $23,000,000 in capital expenditures for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. The request was approved by the SUIE Board of Trustees for transmittal to the Illinois Board of Higher Education. The proposed budget includes 11 projects, listed in priority order. Remodeling of the Broadview Hotel in East St. Louis to accommodate SUIE programs there was given top priority. The project is estimated to cost $375,000 and would include improvements on the fifth, sixth and seventh floors of the building. Expansion of the heating and refrigeration plant on the Edwardsville campus at a cost of $2,400,000 is ranked as capital priority number two. The project would add four absorption type water chillers of 1,200 ton capacity each and two 60 million BTU per hour high temperature water generators to the existing plant. B. D. Hudgins, SUIE vice-president for business affairs, said the expansion is necessary before two classroom buildings now under construction can be adequately cooled or heated. Other high priority projects for which funds are being requested include: No. 3 — $4,600,000 for construction of a physical education building, and $600,000 for extension of utilities to the building. No. 4 — $2,100,000 for equipment for two classroom buildings now under construction. No. 5 — $8,200,000 for construction of a nursing and life science building. The School of Nursing is now housed in the Science and Technology building. Science laboratory space is at a premium; trustees were advised, and enrollment in the School of Nursing has increased substantially in recent years. In addition, substantial numbers of registered nurses are returning to the campus to complete their degree requirements. Only eight registered nurses were enrolled in 1980. At present, 31 registered nurses are enrolled. The University is also requesting: — $135,000 for a package of utilities improvements including a standby pump for the water system, humidification equipment for three buildings and modifications in the electric lighting distribution controls. — $250,000 for planning a new building for the School of Dental Medicine at Alton. — $4,700,000 for construction and architectural and engineering fees for a fine arts building. — $50,000 for roads, sidewalks and drives. — $1,400,000 for purchase of land and equipment and erection of a television broadcasting facility.

— $185,000 for remodeling and rehabilitation of the Communications Building theater and space in existing buildings to allow the buildings to be used for their original purposes when the two classroom buildings now under construction are completed. — $200,000 for purchase of land and equipment and erection of a television broadcasting facility.

More credit practice hearings are planned

Capitol News Service
Springfield—Credit and billing practices of Illinois public utilities will be the subject of a second series of six evening public hearings being held by the Illinois Commerce Commission at locations scattered through the state. The first of this round of hearings was held in Chicago Aug. 14. Upcoming sessions will be at Rockford Aug. 20; Danville, Sept. 20; Carbondale, Sept. 27; East St. Louis, Oct. 18; and Springfield, Oct. 25. Earlier hearings on the subject were held in Chicago, East St. Louis and Springfield, but the additional sessions have been set to allow citizens who could not otherwise attend, to have an opportunity to bring their special problems to the agency's attention, according to ICC chairman Marvin S. Lieberman. Lieberman said the ICC is considering a revision of its general orders regulating utilities on billing, deposits and the establishment of credit for customers. The chairman said many complaints are received from utility customers whose paychecks are received only once or twice each month, and their utility bills arrive at inconvenient times. If a customer must wait until a payday before paying his bill, Lieberman said, he often will be classified as a delinquent account. Many utilities require deposits from customers who are regularly delinquent, and this can pose a serious hardship on a family's budget, the chairman added. The ICC is considering an extension of the time in which a discount for prompt payment can be offered, since most utilities provide for a lower payment if customers pay bills within 10 days.

THE WORLD OF MUSIC

Eagles fly high with 'Desperado'

By JUDY HUGG
Copy News Service

With British hands constantly invading our shores, it's always good news when an American group starts to fly high. The Eagles are doing just that and they have a new album out right on the heels of their last hit LP for Asylum Records.

"Desperado" is a collection of songs about young tough guys — cowboys and outlaws from the past. Repeat performances of skilful guitar and banjo picking set to interesting and arduous arrangements reward the listener. The album has a heavy Wild West theme presented in the popular ballad styling that the Eagles are so good at delivering. "Tequila Sunrise" offers a change of pace in its smooth, soothing rhythms and softer vocals. "Desperado" is a great platter offering a bit of Old West history and some really fine music.

The delicately pleasant vocal efforts of Carolyn Hester are manifested on her latest album entitled simply "Carolyn Hester" on RCA Records. The LP offers a good selection of popular style ballads and love songs. One of the nicest is "My Little Sister" written by Carolyn. Also heard are Elton John's "Your Song" and Jack Tempchin's "Peaceful Easy Feeling." The musical backup is excellent, with Larry Carlton, a fine lead guitarist sitting in.

Babe Ruth scores a hit with their new album, "First Base," on Harvest Records. Long, pulsating jams, paced by plenty of heavy bass and performed by capable musicians are in store for your ears. The most welcome sounds come from the lead vocalist, Jennie Han.

Jennie lacks the soul of Joplin, but she holds her own even when almost drowned out by backup music. She is a welcome newcomer to heavy rock, an area of too few women.

There are six songs on the album and Babe Ruth treats each with the attention and time it takes to have a good jam and tell the full story of each musical piece.

RCA's two-record set for collectors, "Duke Ellington And His Orchestra — Mood Indigo," is a must for Ellington fans and they come in all ages. The recordings were made back in the Duke's Cotton Club days and though they have been reprocessed for stereo effect, none of the old flavor has been lost. What a fantastic group of musicians the great Duke Ellington and his band. The recordings feature the great Duke Ellington and his band. The recordings feature the great Duke Ellington and his band.

ago. "Limehouse Blues," "Black And Tan Fantasia," "Cotton Club Stomp," "Creole Rhapsody." Of especial interest is "Creole Rhapsody," Ellington's first longer work, originally issued on both sides of a 12-inch 78.

Duke Ellington's style has changed and grown, but he was never less than a genius as these recordings of his 1927-31 period prove.

On The Classical Side:

Giacchino Rossini was just 20 years old in 1812 and yet had already written six operas and was preparing for the debut of his seventh, "La Pietra del Paragone," at La Scala opera house in Milan. Although the story was an improbable one that involved such oddities as noble ladies dressing up as soldiers, the music was a stunning success and lifted Rossini from relative obscurity to instant fame. Vanguard now has released a three-record album of the opera with Newell Jenkins conducting the Claron Concerts Orchestra and Chorus, featuring the voices of Beverly Wolff, Elaine Bonazzi, Anne Edgar, John Reardon, Jose Carreras, Andrew Foldi, Justino Diaz and Raymond Murcell. A first-rate production of a great opera.

Stolen auto in crash

A 15-year-old youth driving a stolen station wagon belonging to an Alton man crashed into a parked auto at 26th street and Grand avenue while being pursued by police Monday. Officers said the boy, accompanied by another youth, had escaped from the Pere Marquette Youth Camp in Jersey County. An officer observing the station wagon pulling out of the Tri-Cor Pharmacy lot at 21st Street and Madison Avenue, attempted to halt the vehicle which traveled north on Grand Avenue, running two stop signs prior to colliding with a parked auto owned by Ralph Perryman, 2615 Grand Ave. The boys fled on foot and were picked up a short distance from the scene.

Apple, peach harvests down

By MARY LOU MANNING
Copley News Service
Springfield—Apples and peaches may soon join beef and potatoes in the ranks of scarce commodities this fall if the 1973 production forecast holds true—especially in Illinois.

A 15 per cent decline in apple production is indicated, according to the recent fruit production report released by the Illinois Co-operative Crop Reporting Service. A severe frost during April damaged many just-appearing buds and accounted for the decline to a forecasted 85 million pounds for 1973. Figures for the 1972 crop were 100 million and in 1971, 103 million pounds of apples were produced.

The peach picture looks worse. Again blaming the unusual spring frost, peach production is forecasted at seven million pounds, a decrease of 42 per cent from the 1972 figures and a whopping 70 per cent from the relatively "normal" year of 1971.

On the national scene, apple production should increase four per cent above last year but five per cent less than the 1971 figure. Slightly more than six billion pounds will be produced this year with two of the five leading apple states—Washington and Pennsylvania—expecting an increase in production, and the other three—New York, Virginia and Michigan—expecting a decrease.

The Central states expect to produce .9 billion pounds or a decrease of 25 per cent from last year. This, again, is due to the spring frost.

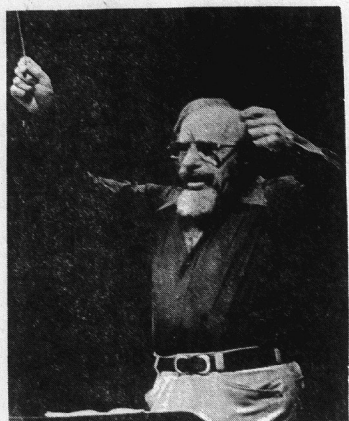

The national peach crop is expected to reach 2.648 million pounds or a 10 per cent increase over last year. However, this represents a seven per cent decrease over the utilized production of 2,863 million pounds in 1971. Excluding California Clingstone peaches, which are mainly used for canning, the crop may total 1,399 million pounds.

South Carolina, not Georgia, remains the "Peach Capital" of the U. S. with a forecasted production of 260 million pounds. New Jersey expects 105 million pounds and Georgia, 100 million pounds.

AMERICA DRAWS CROWD AT MRF. More than 18,000 people attended a rock concert by America at the Mississippi River Festival at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville

MITCH MILLER, who will be the featured guest conductor with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra Aug. 19 at the Mississippi River Festival. He will lead a "sing-along" featuring old-time favorite songs.

AT RESERVE TRAINING, James G. Demontmolin of Granite City returned home this weekend after a two week Army Reserve summer camp at Ft. Hood, Tex. The 22-year-old helicopter mechanic, a member of the 219th Transportation Co. of Wood River, is shown here working on a helicopter's main rotor hub in Texas during the training.

CAR DAMAGED
Fire caused about $50 damage to the auto of Larry Downs, 4402 Kirkpatrick Homes, parked in the 2500 block of Marshall Ave. during the weekend. A leak in a gasoline line was blamed as the cause. Firemen were on the scene 15 minutes.

DRIVING CHARGE
Edward Hornann, 35, of Worden, Ill., was arrested by Granite City police during the weekend at 30th Street and Madison Avenue and was charged with driving while intoxicated.

PERFECT PERSON

Mary Jane, why are you so tidy?

By JANE GLENN HAAS
Copy News Service

All these people in Rinsowhite trousers and slacks are raising my Mary Jane Murphy psychosis again. You know Mary Jane. We all do — except the folk in white.

Mary Jane is that perfect person. She could put on her bright whites, slide into the front seat of her car and know, in her heart, she would not sit on the residue of last night's banana split from the Tasti-Freeze.

I first met Mary Jane in first grade. Unfortunately, I've been running into her ever since.

In first grade, Mary Jane had long corker curls. She always got two points higher than I did on every exam and could spell "honor."

She could break her arm and look dainty and pathetic in her cast.

Mary Jane and her counterparts have mystified me for years.

They are always popular with both the boys and the girls.

Despite the highest temperatures, Mary Jane doesn't sweat. They don't even perspire.

Mary Jane has nails that never break; hair with enough natural curl to give it perfect body and white, even teeth.

Worse than that, Mary Jane can eat Cokes, french fries and hot fudge sundaes and never get a pimple.

Mary Jane passes through high school in a swirl of chiffon and sugar plums. They are always self-assured.

Mary Jane goes on to be president of their college sororities, sweethearts of Sigma Chi and honor students, all at the same time.

They graduate with a diploma in one hand and a diamond on the other.

Mary Jane gets their pictures in the New York Times when they marry rich, and never have to worry about money again.

Mary Jane lives in lovely homes, have 2.3 children, never have to push and shove to get to bargain sale tables and don't have bad breath.

Mary Jane is impervious to middle-age spread and crow's feet.

They never have hangovers, hangnails or hemorrhoids.

The children never have runny noses or socially disgraceful table manners. Their sons keep their knees in their pants and their daughters never dribble Popsicle on their dresses.

Mary Jane stars in television situation comedies and we all go crazy trying to imitate them — or at least trying to figure out how they can have a handful of kids and no potato chip crumbs on the carpet.

Mary Jane has kitchen floors that shine just like the ones in the wax commercials.

They can take a couple of wire coat hangers and, with their clever imagination, end up with a living room full of furniture that looks like a magazine layout.

Mary Jane never have slips that show or a closet they're ashamed to let the neighbor's cat see.

They're tidy to the point of infamy and their homes are always ready for inspection.

Mary Jane always get a perfect tan their first time in the sun. They never, never peel.

Mary Jane, wherever you are, I hope there's a run in your pantyhose.

DATELINE WASHINGTON Congress is now firmly in control

By BENJAMIN SHORE
Copy News Service

WASHINGTON — When President Nixon won reelection last November by landslide proportions, he and his advisers and their Republican allies in the Congress were convinced that the Nixon administration had been given a mandate by the nation to dictate government policy.

But now, nine months later, the pendulum has swung decisively the other way. The Democratic majority in Congress, spurred on perhaps by a touch of Watergate fever and Mr. Nixon's low point in public opinion polls, appears supremely dominant for the moment.

There are those in Congress who say the present situation of power resting squarely on Capitol Hill is "Watergate related," a commonly held phrase.

Others dispute this view, saying that much of the support for the confrontation with the White House had begun building before Watergate became a liability for the President.

But regardless of the reason, Congress now has a feeling of direction and assertiveness unlike anything it has experienced in many years.

In recent weeks, Congress has:

- Approved anti-impoundment legislation requiring a president to spend funds appropriated by Congress for specific federal programs.

- Passed war powers legislation severely restricting a president's authority to engage U.S. forces in prolonged foreign combat without specific approval by Congress.

- Obtained a compromise with the White House in which Congress held off legislation to stop the bombing in Cambodia in return for a presidential promise to stop it by Aug. 15.

- Voted in the Senate to require the confirmation of presidential appointees to several top policy-making administration jobs, such as director of the budget-writing Office of Management and Budget.

- Voted in the Senate against President Nixon's nomination of William Morris to the Federal Power Commission; and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a highly unusual slap at the White House, rejected the President's nomination of G. McMurtrie Godley, former ambassador to Laos, to be assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific affairs.

Furthermore, President Nixon this spring signed several major bills which were virtually identical to ones he vetoed last year as being either inflationary or simply not among his spending priorities.

The war powers, impoundment and bombing issues, to name a few of the major ones, were leftovers from the 1972 session of Congress. Even without Watergate, they would have been back on the front legislative burners this year.

But would they have passed with such gusto, especially the unprecedented war powers vote in the House, had it not been for the psychological advantage which Watergate gave the Democratic-controlled Congress? Many congressmen say yes.

One congressman — a 10-year Democratic leader who requested anonymity — believes the Democrats' refusal so far to discuss impeachment has subtly enhanced their influence with their Republican colleagues.

War powers and impoundment are seen as constitutional issues dealing with Congress' authority to make war and control the purse strings.

The Democratic leadership had hoped — and ultimately succeeded — to keep the issues on that plane and not cheapen the debate with any hint of taking advantage of a president hitting his low point in public popularity.

There are those in Congress who believe the pendulum had begun to swing from the White House back toward Congress last year, well before the Nixon presidency began to suffer from the Watergate revelations.

"We would have gotten war powers, and even impoundment, this year without Watergate," said the Democratic veteran. "In fact, Watergate for a while looked like it might keep some Republicans from joining us for fear of looking like they weren't team players at a time when the GOP was urging support for the President."

Some senators find it interesting that the Ervin committee never gave serious consideration to asking the full Senate to vote for contempt citations against Mr. Nixon for refusing to give the committee the tape recordings and documents it had subpoenaed.

"There are some big fundamental issues still to come in the Senate that could be torpedoed by forcing us to get involved in the middle of the Watergate hearings," a Democratic senator commented.

STITCHING WITCHERY How to determine buttonhole size

By BETTY W. KINSEY
Copy News Service

Your pattern calls for 1/4-inch buttons. You buy 1/4-inch buttons. So why won't they go through the buttonholes? Because you bought "ball" buttons, that's why.

To determine the size buttonhole you need for ball buttons, measure around the button (circumference) and divide this number by two. Then add 1/4 inch more. The total is the length to make your buttonhole ... or else.

+ + +

It isn't too soon to be making out your "what-I-would-like-to-receive-for-Christmas" list.

The reason I take this early approach is that, over the years, I have learned that husbands and children do not take smartly to hints. They field them with tremendous dexterity, choosing to ignore such subtle hints as 12-inch-by-18-inch posters taped to the refrigerator door, mimeographed notes tucked in their underwear, or pre-recorded messages played while they sleep.

So, be brazen (who's to notice?) and come right out with it.

How about asking for a really good pair of scissors? I've mentioned before how important these are to good sewing, but it's vital enough to be repeated now and then.

There are, of course, several types of scissors you may include in your "shears wardrobe," but you needn't try for all of them at once, unless you have a lot of points on your side. Start with a pair of bent-handled dressmaker shears, then add a pair of six-inch sewing scissors; next, a pair of pinkie shears, and so on.

If you are in doubt about which ones you need and which ones you can live without, write for your Wits Scissors Brochure. Send a small, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of your newspaper.

And, good luck. Let me know what you get for Christmas.

+ + +

QUICK STITCH: Do bound buttonholes give you a case of the shakes? Here's help: a bound buttonhole leaflet. Just send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your "instant bound buttonhole lesson."

It beats the shakes.

Questions may be sent to Mrs. Betty W. Kinsey, Copy News Service, in care of this newspaper.

The only compact in America with a 24 month-24,000 mile warranty.*

There are roughly 20 different compact cars on the road today, all claiming to be well-built and sturdy. No doubt they are. But when all is said and done, the final truth comes out in the warranty. And the truth here is that a Volkswagen Type 3 Compact has a warranty that's twice as long as any other compact car. So we're not going to give you a lot of fancy words about how well-built our car is. We'll just let our warranty speak for itself. And let the other guy's do the same.

The Volkswagen Compact. Nothing like it.

*If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, except normal wear and tear and service items, will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge. See your dealer for details.

SIUE to expand academic programs

New undergraduate and graduate programs, including doctoral programs will be added at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville as faculty competence, student needs and university resources can justify them, according to a statement of mission and scope approved by the SIU Board of Trustees.

The statement is required by the Illinois Board of Higher Education as a part of the budget request process for fiscal year 1973, which begins next July 1.

Freshman and sophomore level undergraduate course offerings will be retained, the statement says, but will be fewer in number, and will serve as broad a representation of students as possible. Under the state's master plan for higher education, the junior college system is expected to bear the brunt of enrollment at the lower undergraduate levels.

Junior and senior level undergraduate programs will be developed in response to demonstrated regional, state or national needs and according to faculty capacity to meet those needs, the statement says.

Master's degree programs now in existence will be retained and strengthened unless experience shows lack of development and vigor. At present SIUE offers master's degrees in 34 fields.

"Major emphasis will be placed upon the renewal and further development of upper undergraduate and graduate programs in the academic and professional fields presently established, as well as in new areas where clear educational needs are identified," the statement says.

Master Plan Phase III adopted by the BHE identifies SIUE as a senior institution which should emphasize upper level undergraduate and graduate courses.

Student clientele of the university is expected to continue to include two major groups, young people of the metropolitan area and adults actively employed who are seeking additional educational opportunities to upgrade their skills.

Many of SIUE's younger students are expected to continue to come from families where the parents are not college educated and where educational goals are heavily oriented toward occupation.
The statement indicates SIUE must continue to provide auxiliary programs to assist many of these students to overcome deficiencies in basic learning skills, motivation or knowledge.

While instruction will contribute to be the university's major commitment, resources will be allocated to support a "proper balance between instruction, research and service," the statement says.

Research and service will be promoted in a manner which insures that the results of inquiry and service activities will have "maximum impact on the improvement of instruction."

Brazil topic of GC Kiwanis Club

Dennis Gillie spoke of his experiences and impressions of the people in Brazil after spending 22 months there as a missionary for the Latter Day Saints Church, at a meeting of the Granite City Kiwanis Club
Monday night.

Over one half of the people
South America speak Portuguese and 99 per cent of the residents are anti-communist, he said. Gillie added that his impressions of the people are that more of the residents are moving to the interior to Brazilia which is fast becoming larger than Rio De Janeiro.

There are 99 per cent of the inhabitants listed as members of the Catholic faith, with 49 per cent who actually profess they are Catholic, the guest speaker reported.
